OUTLINES.

At 10 o'clock last night the 59th Congress was adjourned without day; President Roosevelt went to the captol at 1 P. M., lunched there and signed bills till the close of the session——Congress, during the session which ended last night appropriated $880,183,301, and while Chairman Tawney (Rep.), chairman of the Appropriation Committee, attempted to explain away some of the big appropriations, Representative Livingston (D.), of the Committee, warned the Republicans that unless they can provide more sources of revenue they will have to explain a deficit in the treasury——Senator Culberson yesterday called attention to the enormous expenditures of the Roosevelt administration, showing that it has spent more than the McKinley administration when it had on its hands the war with Spain——The appropriation of $60,000 for Fayetteville's government building was made safe yesterday by agreement of the Senate and House conferees——President Roosevelt last night dictated a statement in which he enumerated some measures passed by Congress and declared that it was the greatest work of statesmanship ever accomplished in the history of the Republic——In New York yesterday, Harry K. Thaw's counsel stated that his chorus girl wife will be his main witness in defence from the charge of murdering Stanford White and declared that she will tell a thrilling and tremendous story that will startle New York——New York markets: Money on call nominal, no loans, time loans firmly held; spot cotton quiet 10.80; flour dull but steady; wheat easy; No. 2 red, 91 1-2 nominal elevator; corn steady, No. 2, 60 1-2 nominal elevator; oats firm mixed 42 1-2 to 44; turpentine firm 60 1-4 to 60 3-4; rosin firm, strained common to good, 3.95.

Everything gets investigated but the Republican party.

A financier says "we have plenty of money but the trouble is to get it distributed." We belong to a syndicate that could distribute it all right and it certainly wouldn't be any "trouble" to our crowd.

President Roosevelt stated that if Congress passed the bill allowing the President $25,000 for traveling expenses he expected to pay his own expenses. Then he showed signs of economy by announcing a few days afterward that he would cancel that contemplated western trip.

A New York contemporary says: "The alienists are trying to ascertain on what subject Harry Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, is insane." If they are phrenologists they'd better feel his chorus girl bump and see if it is not abnormally large.

The news from the Republican camps for the past few days indicate that Congressman Blackburn will win out in his fight at the Republican State convention at Greensboro July 10th. It is claimed that he already has the Butler-Rollins-Adams faction laid out.

It is generally agreed in Washington that before Congress adjourned President Roosevelt had the Senate "on the run." However, a review of the historic session just closed will show that President Roosevelt had to shift his position a good many times to get the Senate to start his way.

President Roosevelt has positvely declared that he will not stand for renomination for President in 1908, but he went right on making himself the logical nominee of his party or putting himself in a position where he will have to tell the National Republican convention whom he wants nominated to complete the unfinished business that he started in to do.

Says the Washington Post: "Col. Roosevelt is a radical. There was talk some weeks ago that Col. Bryan had turned conservative, but that report appears to have been somewhat exaggerated." We thought there must be some mistake about it, for we remember that everything radical Col. Roosevelt did was encored by Col. Bryan.

On next Tuesday the Democratic State convention will meet at Greensboro, and on Tuesday, July 10th, the Republican State convention will assemble in the same city. The Republican convention is of interest only as it affects the settlement of the contest between Blackburn and C. J. Harris on one side, and Butler, Rollins and Adams, on the other for the control of the Republican State machine.

IN THE CITY LEAGUE

Two Excellent Exhibitions of the National Game Yesterday Afternohn.

FIVE HUNDRED PRESENT

Rattlers Won From Giants and Y. M. C. A. From Monarchs—Sensational Finish in the Latter Game —The Summaries.

Five hundred devotees of the National sport witnessed the two games in the City Baseball League at Hilton Park yesterday afternoon, saw the invincible Market Street Giants vincible in the hands of the Seventh Street Rattlers by a score of 7 to 6 and witnessed the rare phenomena of a shut-out team recovering itself at the last moment and taking the victory from the other side. The latter was what happened in the game between the Y. M. C. A. and the Monarchs. The Monarchs had the Association team without a thing on cold storage until the ninth inning when they went up in the ozone and before they could get on terra firma again, the Y. M. C. A. had sent five men over the pan and saved the honors. The score was 5 to 4. Both games were well played and exciting from the start to the close. The bleachers gave forth a din that reminded the old stagers of the days of professional ball and all in all it was the most successful meet of teams in the City League this season.

The game between the top-liners was pulled off first and it was great. The S. S. R's. scored seven runs, five hits and five errors while the score card of the Giants showed six runs, eight hits and six errors. Wilkinson, Alderman and Seifert had the honor of a two-base hit each. Sallings issued three passes during his incumbency on the slab and struck out eight. Gore gave three passes but struck out none. The Giants had six men left on bases, the Rattlers, five. Seven stolen bases were accredited to the last named and 12 to the Giants. Mr. Young was the umpire and the time was 1:30.

In the second game the Y. M. C. A. got five runs, four hits and six errors while the Monarchs scored only four runs, six hits and several errors. Bancks gave no bases on balls and Duls let only one have free transportation. The Association had three left on bases and the Monarchs two. Bancks struck out seven and Duls five. The Y. M. C. A. had eight stolen bases to its credit and the Monarchs seven. Mr. Wilson was the umpire and the time was 1:20. A three-base hit by Belden was the feature of the game.

Payment of Life Policy.

Mr. John Underwood, of Fayetteville, special agent, has received a telegram from the Preferred Accident Insurance Company, of New York, stating that a check for $5,500 has been mailed to cover the policy carried by the late Jno. M. Wright in that company. Mr. Underwood and family are guests at the Hotel Tarrymoore, on Wrightsville Beach.

CHILD IN QUESTION

Interesting Habeas Corpus Proceeding From Brunswick County Before Judge Peebles Here Yesterday The Stanley Troubles.

Judge Robert B. Peebles, of the Superior Court, in this city yesterday heard an interesting habeas corpus proceeding which was brought by Mrs. Kate Stanley, of Southport, against J. Wesley Stanley, the plaintiff's husband, and his mother, Mrs. Hannah J. Stanley, of Shallotte, Brunswick county, the purpose of the action by Mrs. Stanley being to recover possession of a little four-year-old son in the possession of her husband from whom she has been separated several months. Each side pleaded that the other party was not the proper person to raise the child and some sensational evidence was introduced in behalf of first one and then the other. George L. Peschau, Esq., of Southport, represented Mrs. Stanley and E. H. Cranmer, Esq., appeared for the husband. A large number of witnesses were present from Brunswick, the proceeding being the sequel to a number of other suits involving the domestic relations of the couple in the courts of Brunswick county during the last year or two.

It was alleged that some time ago upon the separation of the husband and wife, the latter was left in posses-

POSTOFFICE RECEIPTS SHOW LARGE INCREASE

Some Interesting Figures of the Business Done Given By Postmaster Wallace Upon Close of Fiscal Year Last Night

The receipts at the Wilmington postoffice for the fiscal year ended last night show an increase of 16.3 per cent. over the phenomenal record of the fiscal year previous. The increase is highly satisfactory and is a multiplication of evidence that the progress of the city continues in substantial manner and that there is every reason for an abiding faith in the prediction made by a distinguished Wilmingtonian not a long while ago that Wilmington would in ten years double its population and increase its business in a corresponding ratio.

The figures are from the official record of Wilmington's affable postmaster, Mr. Thos. E. Wallace, who has every detail of the postoffice accounting at his finger's tip. For the year 1905, the receipts were $71,394.21 while for the year 1906, the total was $83,935.80, making the gain in dollars and cents, $11,641.59. The showing is very creditable indeed and gives a faint idea of the multiplicity of transactions that take place in that one department of Uncle Sam's big building up on the corner. The increase for the month ended last night was 11 2-5 per cent., while that for the quarter ended at the same time was 7 per cent. The rather poor showing for the quarter is accounted for from the fact that April, May and June are months rather between the seasons and there is not so much activity in all lines as during the remainder of the year. However, with the high standard of the year before, the increases are all very satisfactory and bear out unmistakably that the town is still on the move forward for there is no better index than the records of the postoffice.

At the close of the fiscal year, Postmaster Wallace has also compiled some very interesting data relative to the money order department of the Wilmington postoffice. During the twelvemonth there have been issued 18,542 domestic money orders, amounting to $139,028.57 upon which the fees were $1,066.14. International money orders to the number of 335 were issued to the value of $6,265.80 and the fees on the same were $67.81. At the office 1,067 orders were paid, the aggregate amount of the same being $155,709.24. When it is considered that these amounts are aggregated from small amounts largely, some idea may be gained of the vast number of transactions that are required to do the business. The Wilmington postoffice is also the depository for surplus money order funds from a large number of smaller offices in this district. For the year just ended the record shows that funds amounting to $296,002.51 were handled from these smaller offices.

Postmaster Wallace is to be congratulated upon the excellent showing made by the institutions over the destinies of which he presides so ably and with such becoming dignity.

PLUNGED TO DEATH

Michigan Man, Patient at Hospital, Threw Himself from Window.

WAS EVIDENTLY A SUICIDE

Was Convalescing From Typhoid Fever and in Fit of Despondency Determined to End His Life—Died Yesterday A. M.

Frank Clark, a saw filer in the employ of the Waccamaw Land and Lumber Company and residing on Harnett street, this city, died at 4 o'clock yesterday morning as the result of a fracture of the skull suffered at 8 o'clock the night previous by throwing himself from a second story window of the James Walker Memorial Hospital where he was convalescing from an attack of fever. It is believed that the rash act of the man was committed in a fit of despondency as he had been very nervous and much depressed for the past several months. The attempt at self destruction was discovered a very few minutes after it had occurred. One of the nurses had just been to his ward and administered a dose of medicine. He was apparently not delirious, but as soon as the nurse left the room it appears that he arose, lifted the screen from the window and pitched himself headlong to the hard surface below. He was brought back into the hospital in an unconscious condition and died eight hours later in spite of all that could be done for him. Domestic troubles are said to have been worrying him for some time and he frequently consulted his physician about his nervous condition. Later he was attacked with typhoid fever and in his weakened condition in the first stages of convalescence, it is believed that he went beside himself and in a fit of despondency threw himself from the window. The morning before he had sent for Dr. McClure, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and Dr. McClure found him greatly depressed when he called in the afternoon. The minister endeavored in every way to quiet him and the patient was left apparently in much better spirits, though he had mentioned to several the likelihood of his committing suicide.

Clark came here some time ago from Cheboygan, Mich., and has two brothers connected with the Waccamaw Land and Lumber Co., in executive capacities. He also leaves a wife in Michigan. He was quiet and unassuming in his manner, about 40 years of age, and was well liked by all who knew him. Soon after the tragic death of the man, his remains were removed to the rooms of Funeral Director Woolvin and prepared for burial. At first it was thought the body

BRIGADE ENCAMPMED

First Battalion North Carolina Boys' Brigade on Outing at Southport.

THE FIRST ORDER IS ISSUED

First Order Is Issued—Young Soldiers Reached Their Destination Tired and Sleepy, Exercises Were Suspended for Day.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Camp Glenn, Southport, N. C., June 30.—The Boys' Brigade, of Wilmington, arrived this morning bright and early and at once proceeded to start into camp life in earnest. They were pretty sleepy when they arrived and Colonel Taylor suspended all drills for to-day. There are twenty-two of the members in camp as follows: Colonel Walker Taylor, Lieutenant W. R. Dosher, Corporal A. L. Mott, Chaplain Chas. Dushan, Commissary Sergeant W. L. Tilley, and Privates Allen, Brittian, Beach, Benson, Boney, Curtis, Gore (Lee) Hodges, Hill, Jewell, Keen, Muse, Willetts, Wingo, Williams and Young. About ten or fifteen more of the Brigade including Capt. J. J. Loughlin, First Sergeant Fred Russ and Musician A. L. Dosher are expected to arrive tomorrow morning.

The following order was posted at headquarters this afternoon: General Order No. 1, Guard detail for to-day: Officers of the day Lieut. Francis Garrison, Sergeant of the Guard, Sgt. R. H. Orrell, Corporal of the Guard, Corporal A. L. Mott: Detail: Privates Wingo, Benson, Gore, Keen. Bathing hours for to-day 3 P. M. By order of Colonel Taylor, W. B. Muse, Acting Adjutant."

The following young boys are the guests of Colonel Taylor: Lewis Cotchett, Robert Taylor, Alfred M. Scales, Jr., and Walker Taylor, Jr.

The mascot of the camp is Mr. Dushan's tame bull dog "Buggs," which he has brought down to keep off the hazers.

Private Tommy Willetts took his annual bath this afternoon, which necessitated the government dredge coming up to clean out the mud.

Corporal Mott and Private Brittain have spent the entire day catching crabs, some of them will no doubt find rest tonight in Private Young's tent if "Buggs" don't take a reef in the joker's army pants.

Lieutenant Dosher was slightly indisposed today and did not go on duty.

Albert Beach has been writing souvenir postal cards to all of his best girls to-day.

The fair damsels of Southport have not put in their appearance as yet, but when they do come out on the "garrison" to-night, Privates Beach and Wingo will no doubt crop

BLUITT FALLS WORK

Construction Begun on Mammoth Development Project of Hugh MacRae & Co.

A BIG LAND PURCHASE

Valuable Property Acquired in Anson County—May Transmit Electric Power to Wilmington—Large Force Employed.

A gentleman who returned from a trip up the Carolina Central railroad yesterday speaks most interestingly of the activities at Bluitt Falls, in Anson county, where Messrs. Hugh MacRae & Co., of this city, are developing the great water power for the transmission of electricity to all nearby points, including Wilmington. It is really a mammoth undertaking of which few people seem to recognize the importance, said the gentleman in question.

Messrs. W. R. Bonsal & Co., of Hamlet, who have been awarded the contract for the construction of the big dam across the Pee Dee at the Falls are already placing material on the grounds and preparing to enter actively upon the work. The dam is to be completed within sixteen months. It will be over fifty feet deep and will cost, so it is said, several hundred thousand dollars. It is estimated that 40,000 horse power can be developed at the plant which will be in operation in two years. Quite a little town is growing up at the Falls and it will be a busy centre for some time, a very large force of hands being employed. Only last week Messrs. MacRae & Co., purchased for $32,500 a tract of 375 acres of land from Mrs. Mary Anna Ingram, of Lilesville, adjoining the Falls, and being a site for a part of the plant. A track is being built out from the Seaboard Air Line to the Falls.

The Charlotte Observer of a recent date says:

"It is figured that this power can be carried to Wilmington, say 120 miles, at 100,000 volts, and a loss of not over 10 per cent. This Pee Dee power may be sold at Rockingham, Lumberton, Tatum and McColl, in South Carolina, and other places. If carried to Wilmington it may all be sold.

"In the West power of watercourses is carried 200 miles and sold to advantage of the purchaser and the power producer. This is sometimes in localities where coal is at $15 a ton or where mining is done where fuel is inaccessible. Here in the South Atlantic area coal is near $4 a ton and power $20 outside the transformer, and at these prices water power is transmitted or otherwise is cheap enough.

"There is no trouble about carrying currents from Pee Dee to Wilmington and at a good profit if the cost of development is not too much. The prices named are for units of 200 horse-power and upwards. For 100 horse-power $25 would seem to be a fair price. The smaller the unit the higher the price. Ten-horse-power at $50 a horse-power is cheap. One-horse power at $200 a horse-power is cheap enough.

THE BEACH CASINO

National Stock Company Will Present DuBarry at Wrightsville Three Nights This Week—Manager Hamilton Feels Encouraged.

At the Casino this week Manager Johnston will offer as the attraction Dorothy Lewis, supported by the National Stock Company, which is said to be an organization of merit. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the bill will be "Du Barry," and the piece will be elegantly staged and given a first-class production. The cast of characters will be as follows:

Louis XV., King of France—Jno. C. Bloom; Duke de Richelieu, Marsahl of France—Sidney Diamond; Count de St. Germain, an old beau—Harry B. Turner; Duke de Segur—Comer Breedlove; Chevalier de Lauzuma, a gentleman of the court—Frank Kendall; Dr. Sattuzzi, an Italian physician—A. G. White; Duchess de Chateaurax—Mattie Webb; Jean Bicu, a milliner, afterwards Duchess DuBarry—Dorothy Lewis.

Act 1 opens with the scene of the guard room of the palace at Versailles, while in Act 2 the Garden of the Palace in the scene of the King's Love. Act 3 introduces the Duchess DuBarry in her apartments and the incident of the poisoned wine. The last act is staged in the ante-room of the King, depicting his death at length in his bed chamber.

All announcements and recommendations of candidates for office, whether in the shape of communications or otherwise, will be charged as advertisements.

Payments for transient advertisements must be made in advance. Known parties, or strangers with proper reference, may pay monthly or quarterly, according to contract.

Remittances must be made by Check, Draft, Postal Money Order, Express or in Registered Letter. Only such remittances will be at the risk of the publisher.

Communications, unless they contain important news or discuss briefly and properly subjects of real interest, are not wanted; and, if acceptable in every other way, they will invariably be rejected if the real name of the author is withheld.

Notices of Marriage or Death, Tributes of Respect, Resolutions of Thanks, etc., are charged for as ordinary advertisements, but only half rates when paid for strictly in advance. At this rate 50 cents will pay for a simple announcement of Marriage or Death

Advertisements inserted once a week in Daily will be charged $1.00 per inch for each insertion. Every other day, three-fourths of daily rate. Twice a week, two-thirds of daily rate.

Contract advertisers will not be allowed to exceed their space or advertise anything foreign to their regular business without extra charge at transient rates.

Avertisements kept under the head of "New Advertisements" will be charged fifty per cent. extra.

Advertisements to follow reading matter, or to occupy any special place, will be charged extra according to the position desired.

LET THEM COME SOUTH.

The Boston Transcript expresses mingled regret and alarm because of the constant and increasing "trek" of American farmers across the borders into the new Canadian territory. Most of the people who are leaving the United States are going from the Northwestern States, and they are going by thousands. The Toronto (Canada) Globe takes comfort over it and remarks:

"The people who come over to buy new farms after selling their old ones are not mere birds of passage or land speculators. They have come to make the Canadian Northwest their home, and they display rare aptitude in accommodating themselves to their new environment. They find social life about what they make it for themselves. The school systems are quite as good as those they left behind. Law and order are more effectively maintained than they are in the Western States. Every new settlement is promptly visited by the missionaries of Christian Churches. Allegiance to the United States sat more lightly on them in their own land than they knew until they bade it a long last farewell, and allegiance to Canada is easily assumed. They are prosperous and contented, and their children, whatever may be said of themselves, will be thoroughly Canadianized as they grow up to be men and women.

"It is not surprising that the great northern 'trek' of the people from Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Montana and States farther south and east of these, has aroused feelings of alarm in those who remain behind, and who have begun to devise ways and means of retaining their own people by counter attractions."

The Star has heretofore remarked that those Northwestern States might be a good missionary field in which to work for settlers to come South. Thousands of them might come here if they had the advantages of the South properly laid before them. It is curious that many of them regard the South as unhealthy.

TAKING COMFORT.

The Wall Street Journal in a recent editorial said:

"It must have been great relief to the New York life insurance companies when the glare of publicity began to fall upon the Standard Oil Company. The Standard Oil Company in turn had reason to rejoice when the revelations of graft on the Pennsylvania Railroad turned public attention from its secret rates and oppressive methods of destroying competition. And now interest in the Pennsylvania Railroad is swallowed up in the overwhelming publicity given to the beef trust methods."

Col. William Jennings Bryan's Commoner retorts with this:

"It is worthy of note, too, that while the managers of the insurance companies, the managers of the Standard Oil trust and the managers of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company are more or less disturbed because of the revelations concerning their misdeeds, the managers of the Republican party are wonderfully calm. They make no effort to restore to the policyholders, and other helpless victims, the several hundred thousand dollars embezzled by trusted officials with the aid and assistance of the Republican party managers and for the benefit of the Republican party's treasury."

That is a hard saying. Those subscriptions to the Republican campaign fund will never be refunded. The people of the United States were startled at the disclosures made by the insurance investigation but the Republican party was not sufficiently horrified to cause it to return money gotten in such a scandalous manner.

The Republicans pretend like they are heartily in favor of investigations, but Congress adjourned yesterday without giving Senator Tillman a chance to have the national banks investigated for contributing money to buy the people's election. There are some investigations at which Republicans draw the line.

It might be observed also that the administration let Congress go home without demanding the enactment of the bill calling for a publication of contributions by corporations and persons to Presidential and other campaign funds.

TWO BILLION DOLLAR CONGRESS.

We well remember when the appropriations made by Congress for a two year's term reached the billion dollar mark that it was noted with astonishment and alarm in nearly every paper in the country. What will be thought of a two billion dollar Congress?

The Fifty-Eighth Congress completed its work and adjourned yesterday, and the Washington correspondent of the New York Times tells us that the appropriations of the Fifty Ninth Congress will come within sight of the two-billion dollar mark, if the money given during the next session comes any where near the mark of the Congress just adjourned.

Estimates made by members of the House who have been following the subject, show that the total of the appropriations of this Congress will be not far from $882,000,000. With those of the next session equaling that amount, the total would be considerably more than a billion and three-quarters. The estimate does not take into consideration the fact that this year there has been no River and Harbor bill, and that Chairman Burton of the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors is already figuring on a bill for next Winter that will carry about $75,000,000.

It has long been the rule that when a rolling of the pork barrel does not occur during a session, the next one rolls it twice as hard. River and harbor bills have been carrying from $25,000,000 to $35,000 000 in the last few years, so that next year it will be about making up the average if it carries $75,000,000. Chairman Burton, who is strenuously opposed to increasing the navy, also hopes to enlist for his bill all those who are against appropriations for the navy.

It is only a comparatively few years since Speaker Reed voiced his justification for the first billion dollar Congress by saying that "we have become a billion dollar country." Congress has gone on pouring out money in steadily increasing amounts until now the time seems not far away when there will be billion dollar sessions.

BEEN TOO RADICAL.

We are told that the moneyed and corporate interests will breathe freer now that Congress has adjourned. There is also said to be some sentiment in Congressional circles that it has been a radical Congress and that a halt must be called.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce is authority for the statement that "the signs are multiplying that corporate interests and their representatives in the Senate are growing more and more worried, and are feeling that they must take vigorous steps to assert themselves and to stem the current of popular unrest. The campaign of education some are now proposing to themselves has already been referred to in this correspondence. There can be little doubt that it will be undertaken and pushed with vigor in the effort to resist further attempts at radical legislation. It is a fact that moneyed interests are very suspicious of Congress, particularly of the House, in view of the developments of this session, and that they will not contribute freely to campaign funds. That such is the case is vouched for by members of the National Campaign Committee of the Republican party, and is as true of the Democrats as it is of the Republicans."

Speaking of a purpose to placate the trusts and allied interests generally that may be so of the Republican campaign committee but we hardly think the time has come for the Democrats to be getting afraid of their shadows. However, the Washington correspondent goes on to say that the fact would seem to be that there is a general feeling that some new methods must be employed and that reliance cannot any longer be placed on the control of Congressional elections just at this time. That the Presidential election will furnish the occasion for a battle royal is now an admitted fact. The contest will occur within the two parties chiefly, and not primarily between them. The work of the past session has greatly strengthened the chances of conservative candidates on both sides, as against their radical competitors, by assuring them the support of those interests which have been feeling themselves atacked by legislation already passed and now pending. He adds:

"Whatever victories have been won in the matter of corporate control they have been the result entirely of fortunate circumstances combined with strenuous effort. They are essentially temporary in character and are not likely to be repeated, unless through the continued attention and application of the same kind of pressure on the part of the public and of those interested that has already been used so effectively."

CURRENT COMMENT.

—The rest of the country seems to resent the "intrusion" of Lumpkin as a candidate against your Uncle Ben a great deal more than the people of South Carolina do. Uncle Ben has become a national character and the rest of the country is standing on the rights belonging to a common Americanism.—Florence Times.

—The Charlotte suburban farmers have been paying a good deal of attention to fruit growing recently and the results are now becoming apparent. The farm of Mr. W. P. Myers, to the east of the city, near the Lutheran College, may be taken as a type. After the early truck comes the early fruit. The peach orchard is planted on the progressive order and as soon as the first variety, a fine red plush peach, disappears, another variety comes on so that Mr. Myers has the finest sort of peaches for the market, from the earliest to the latest that can be grown. There are half a dozen other farmers of this kind about Charlotte and the owners are simply pulling money from the trees.—Charlotte Chronicle.

—The owners of the dairy at which some forty cows were found to be afflicted with tuberculosis did the right thing in making a frank statement of the situation to the public. It is generally a most unwise course to endeavor to suppress matters of this kind. This case also demonstrated the wisdom of a law to regulate the sale of dairy products and meat in Charlotte.—Charlotte Observer.

—The announcement is made that by the completion of the Raleigh and Southport Railroad from Raleigh to Fayetteville the Atlantic Coast Line has secured an entrance into the former city and on after July 10th compete with the Southern and Seaboard for passenger and freight traffic. Raleigh will thus enjoy the privilege of having connection with all three of the big systems of the South.—Charlotte Observer.

—There is the promise of another march to the sea, over the route laid waste by Sherman's men. A dispatch says that an excursion has been organized by post graduate officers from the staff college at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and while some objection has been raised to the movement the promoters seem determined to make the trip. The Chattanooga Times remarks, however, that the South should interpose no objection, that it should give the soldiers every opportunity of seeing what happened years ago and what has happened since. That is the sensible view, as a matter of course, though we fail to see what will be accomplished by this so-called investigation.—Raleigh Times.

GRANDEST THING OF CENTURIES

Keeley Treatment Cures Victims of All Thirs for Liquor—Cass of 15 Years Cured.

The Keeley Institute, Greensboro, N. C.:

Being a graduate of Keeley, the grandest institution the world has ever known, I write for the benefit of fallen humanity. More than two years ago I was taken by my brothers and started for your Institution, without one ray of hope of ever being cured of the habit of strong drink, for I had not known what it was to be sober for fifteen years; and I had come to the sad point that I had no control over my appetite, and felt that I was doomed to earthly misery and eternal destruction. My liver had become so enlarged I could scarcely breathe. Through the pleadings of an aged mother and a devoted, heartbroken wife, I went to your Institute. I was met by the manager and physician, and was made to feel at home from the first. Never was there a more kind, generous hearted set of men trying each day to spread sunshine in your way, giving every comfort possible. The accommodations were all that could be asked for, and I can truthfully say I believe the treatment to be the grandest thing of the 19th and other centuries. When I came home and was thrown with my own associates, nothwithstanding their persuasions and all the temptations thrown in my way, it has never been one particle of temptation to me since the day I left there. I have no desire for it at any time. I know that I am cured of the thirst for all strong drink. I feel that I am indebted to the Keeley Institute of Greensboro, N. C., for what I am today. It has no truer friend than I, and in conclusion, I will say to one and all who drink whiskey, go to Keeley without fail.

A STORY OF PROGRESS

Six years ago Geo. O. Gaylord realized that his business had reahed the point that presented unusual opportunities of greater growth, and he laid his plans by building and moving into his present store on North Front Street which is a building of 49 feet front and one hundred and twenty-five feet deep and three stories high.

The location at the time was a little out of the trading section and it was generally surmised that his business would go to pieces because it was somewhat out of the range of other merchants. His reputation, however, was too well established. He moved his business to this seemingly out of the way location and with him went the trade.

He had been in business in this town for some ten years before beginning business with comparatively no capital and little or no experience, he has like the acorn now grown to be the oak and spreads the branches of his store over more floor space than any one men's store in North Carolina.

After being in this store for two years we found our floor space not large enough for our business and planned to build and did build another store three stories high with a frontage of 35 feet and a depth of 120 feet.

These twin stores he occupies alone and they are now filled to their utmost capacity.

Not satisfied; he is now planning to build still another additon to his store on a vacant lot in the rear to be 49 feet wide and 67 feet deep.

His business is increasing to such an extent and his departments becoming so cramped that he finds it a necessity to enlarge his store in this way to make room for his stock.

With this great amount of goods there must be represented a good assortment and his many departments are kept up full and complete.

He has a premium department which he has just been called upon to examine into as to the premiums given away within the last two weeks and the amount even surprised him. He cannot tell whether it pays or not, but he feels sure his customers appreciate it because they receive good and useful presents on their purchases while they cost them absolutely nothing.

This business is built up on a solid basis by dealing honestly, fairly and squarely with each and every one.

This store sells values and our merchandise sales grow daily.

This progress is no newspaper story. Look on the front of the big building on Front street and you will find only the name Geo. O. Gaylord on the store. He wants you to become a customer. He has goods to please any one and his assortment is so great than he can suit any one as to price.

In low prices and big values, he absolutely leads.

He keeps all classes of Summer goods and his stock is up to the minute.

Watch his progress. He has not reached the top yet. A few more years will unfold still greater surprises.

COME TO THE BIG DEPARTMENT STORE,

GOE. O. GAYLORD,
Proprietor.

THE NIGHTMAN'S STORY GOOSE RIVER JUNCTION

Young Railroader's Assignment to Various Places and What Became of Him—The Pretty Girl in the Affair at the Junction

BY FRANK H. SPEARMAN.

(Copyright 1900, by S. S. McClure Co.)

His full name was James Gillespie Blaine Lyons, but his real name was Bullhead—just plain Bullhead.

When he began passenger braking the trainmaster put him on with Pat Francis. The very first trip he made a man in the smoking car asked him where the drinking water was. Bullhead, though sufficiently gaudy in his new uniform, was not prepared for any question that might be thrown at him. He pulled out his book of rules, which he had been told to consult in case of doubt, and after some study referred his inquirer to the fire bucket hanging at the front end of the car. The passenger happened to be a foreigner and very thirsty. He climbed up on the Baker heater, according to directions, and did at some risk get hold of the bucket—but it was empty.

"Iss no vater hier," cried the second class man. Bullhead sat half way back in the car, still studying the rules. He looked up surprised, but, turning around, pointed with confidence to the fire pail at the hind end of the smoker.

"Try the other bucket, Johnnie," he said calmly. At that every man in the car began to choke, and the German, thinking the new brakeman was making funny of him, wanted to fight. Now, Bullhead would rather fight than go to Sunday school any day, and without parley he engaged the insulted homesteader. Pat Francis parted them after some hard words on his part, and Kenyon, the trainmaster, gave Bullhead three months to study up where the water cooler was located in standard, A pattern, smoking cars. Bullhead's own mother, who did Callahan's washing, refused to believe her son was so stupid as not to know, but Bullhead, who now tells the story himself, claims he did not know.

When he got back to work he tried the freight trains. They put him on the No. 29, local, and one day they were drifting into the yard at Goose River Junction when there came from the cab a sharp call for brakes. Instead of climbing out and grabbing a brakewheel for dear life Bullhead looked out the window to see what the excitement was. By the time he had decided what rule covered the emergency his train had driven a stray flat halfway through the eating house east of the depot. Kenyon, after hearing Bullhead's own candid statement of fact, coughed apologetically and said three years, whereupon Bullhead resigned permanently from the train service and applied for a job in the roundhouse.

But the roundhouse—for a boy like Bullhead. It would hardly do. He was put at helping Pete Beezer, the boiler washer. One night Pete was snatching his customary nap in the pit when the hose got away from Bullhead and struck his boss. In the confusion Peter, who was nearly drowned, lost a set of teeth. That was sufficient in that department of the motive power; Bullhead moved on—suddenly. Neighbor thought he might do for a wiper. After the boy had learned something about wiping he tried one day to back an engine out on the turntable just to see whether it was easy. It was, dead easy, but the turntable happened to be arranged wrong for the experiment, and Neighbor, before calling in the wrecking gang, took occasion to kick Bullhead out of the roundhouse bodily.

Nevertheless Bullhead, like every Medicine Bend boy, wanted to railroad. Some fellows can't be shut off. He was offered the presidency of a Cincinnati bank by a private detective agency which had just sent up the active head of the institution for ten years, but as Bullhead could not arrange transportation east of the river he was obliged to let the opportunity pass.

When the widow Lyons asked Callahan to put Jamie at telegraphing the assistant superintendent nearly fell off his chair. Mrs. Lyons, however, was in earnest, as the red haired man soon found by the way his shirts were starched. Her son meantime had got hold of a sounder and was studying telegraphy, corresponding at the same time with the Cincinnati detective agency for the town and county rights to all "hidden and undiscovered crime" on the mountain division, rights offered at the very reasonable price of $10 by registered mail, bank draft or express money order; currency at sender's risk. The only obligations imposed by this deal were secrecy and a German silver star, and Bullhead, after holding his trusting mother up for the ten, became a regularly installed detective with proprietary rights to local misdeeds. Days he plied his sounder and nights he lay awake trying to mix up Pete Beezer and Neighbor with the disappearance of various bunches of horses from the Bar M ranch.

About the same time he became interested in dentistry. Not that there is any obvious connection between railroading and detective work and filling teeth, but his thoughts just turned that way, and, following the advice of a local dentist who didn't want altogether to discourage him, Bullhead borrowed a pair of forceps and pulled all the teeth out of a circular saw to get his arm into practice. Before the dentist pronounced him proficient, though, his mother had Callahan reduced to terms, and the assistant superintendent put Bullhead among the operators.

That was a great day for Bullhead. He had to take the worst of it, of course, sweeping the office and that, but, whatever his faults, the boy did as he was told. Only one vicious habit clung to him—he had a passion for reading the rules. In spite of this, however, he steadily mastered the taking, and as for sending, he could do that before he got out of the cuspidor department. Everybody around the Wickiup bullied him, and maybe that was his salvation. He got used to expecting the worst of it and nerved himself to take it, which in railroading is half the battle.

A few months after he became competent to handle a key the nightman at

Struck Bullhead as a grizzly would a gnat.

Goose River Junction went wrong. When Callahan told Bullhead he thought about giving him the job, the boy went wild with excitement and in a burst of confidence showed Callahan his star. It was the best thing that ever happened, for the assistant head of the division had an impulsive way of swearing the nonsense out of a boy's head, and when Bullhead confessed to being a detective a fiery stream was poured on him. The foolishness couldn't quite all be driven out in one round, but Jamie Lyons went to Goose River fairly well informed as to how much of a fool he was.

Goose River Junction is not a lively place. It has been claimed that even the buzzards at Goose River Junction play solitaire. But apart from the utter loneliness it was hard to hold operators there on account of Nellie Cassidy. A man rarely stayed at Goose River past the second pay check. When he got money enough to resign he resigned, and all because Nellie Cassidy despised operators.

The lunch counter that Matt Cassidy, Nellie's father, ran at the Junction was just an adjunct for feeding train crews and the few miners who wandered down from the Glencoe spur. Matt himself took the night turn, but days it was Nellie who heated the Goose River coffee and dispensed the pie—contract pie made at Medicine Bend and sent by local freight classified as ammunition, loaded and released, O. R.

It was Nellie's cruelty that made the frequent shifts at Goose River. Not that she was unimpressible or had no heroes. She had plenty of them in the engine and the train service. It was the smart uniformed young conductors and the kerchiefed juvenile engineers on the fast runs to whom Nellie paid deference and for whom she served the preferred doughnuts.

But this was nothing to Bullhead. He had his head so full of things when he took his new position that he failed to observe Nellie's contempt. He was just passing out of the private detective stage, just getting over dental beginnings, just rising to the responsibility of the key, and a month devoted to his immediate work and the study of the rules passed like a limited train. Previous to the coming of Bullhead no Goose River man had tried study of the rules as a remedy for loneliness. It proved a great scheme, but it aroused the unmeasured contempt of Nellie Cassidy. She scorned Bullhead unspeakably, and her only uneasiness was that he seemed unconscious of it.

However, the little Goose River girl had no idea of letting him escape that way. When scorn became clearly useless she tried cajolery—she smiled on Bullhead. Not till then did he give up; her smile was his undoing. It was so absolutely novel to Bullhead—Bullhead, who had never got anything but kicks and curses and frowns. Before Nellie's smiles, judiciously administered, Bullhead melted like the sugar she began to sprinkle in his coffee. That was what she wanted; when he was fairly dissolved Nellie, like the coffee, went gradually cold. Bullhead became miserable, and to her life at Goose River was once more endurable.

It was then that Bullhead began to sit up all day, after working all night, to get a single smile from the direction of the pie rack. He hung, utterly miserable, around the lunch room all day, while Nellie made impersonal remarks about the colorless life of a mere operator as compared with life in the cab of a ten wheeler. She admired the engineer, Nellie. Was there ever a doughnut girl who didn't? And when No. 1 or No. 2 rose smoking out of the alkali east or the alkali west and the mogul engine checked its gray string of sleepers at the Junction platform, and Bat Mullen climbed down to oil round—as he always did—there were the liveliest kind of heels behind the counter.

Such were the moments when Bullhead sat in the lunch room, unnoticed, somewhat back where the flies were bad and helped himself aimlessly to the sizzling maple sirup, Nellie rustling back and forth for Engineer Mullen, who ran in for a quick cup and consulted, after each swallow, a dazzling open faced gold watch thin as a double eagle, for Bat at twenty-one was pulling the fast trains and carried the best. And with Bullhead feeding on flannel cakes and despair and Nellie Cassidy looking quite her smartest, Mullen would drink his coffee in an impassive rush, never even glancing Bullhead's way—absolutely ignoring Bullhead. What was he but a nightman, anyway? Then Mullen would take as much as a minute of his running time to walk forward to the engine with Miss Cassidy and stand in the lee of the drivers chatting with her, while Bullhead went completely frantic.

It was being ignored in that way, after her smiles had once been his, that crushed the night operator. It filled his head with schemes for obtaining recognition at all hazards. He began by quarreling violently with Nellie, and things were coming to a serious pass around the depot when the Klondike business struck the Mountain division. It came with a rush, and when they began running through freight extras by way of the Goose River short line, day and night, the Junction station caught the thick of it. It was something new altogether for the short line rails and the short line operators, and Bullhead's night trick, with nothing to do but poke the fire and pop at coyotes, became straightway a busy and important post.

On a certain night, windier than all the November nights that had gone before, the night operator sat alone in the office facing a resolve. Goose River had become intolerable. Medicine Bend was not to be thought of, for Bullhead now had a suspicion, due to Callahan, that he was a good deal of a chump, and he wanted to get away from the ridicule that had always and everywhere made life a burden. There appeared to Bullhead nothing for it but the Klondike. On the table before the moody operator lay his letter of resignation, addressed in due form to J. S. Bucks, superintendent. Near it, under the lamp, lay a well thumbed copy of the book of rules, open at the chapter on resignations, with subheads on—

Resign, who should.

Resign, how to.

Resign, when to. (See also Time.)

The fact was it had at last painfully forced itself on Bullhead that he was not fitted for the railroad business. Pat Francis had unfeelingly told him so; Callahan had told him so; Neighbor had told him so; Bucks had told him so. On that point the leading West End authorities were agreed. Yet in spite of these discouragements he had persisted and at last made a show. Who was it now that had shaken his stubborn conviction? Bullhead hardly dared confess.

While he reread his formal letter and compared on spelling with his pocket Webster, a train whistled. Bullhead looked at the clock; 11:40 p. m. It was the local freight, 30, coming in from the west, working back to Medicine. From the east No. 1 had not arrived. She was six hours late, and Bullhead looked out at his light, for he had orders for the freight. It was not often that such a thing happened, because No. 1 rarely went off schedule badly enough to throw her into his turn. He had his orders copied and O. K.'d and waited only to deliver them.

It was fearfully windy. The 266 engine, pulling 30 that night, wheezed in the gale like a man with the apoplexy. She had a new fireman on, who was burning the life out of her, and as she puffed painfully down on the scrap rails of the first siding and took the Y her overloaded safety gasped violently.

When the conductor of the No. 30 train opened the station door the wind followed him like a catamount. The stove puffed open with a down draft and shot the room full of stinging smoke. The lamp blaze flew up the chimney—out—and left the nightman and the conductor in darkness. The trainman with a swear shoved to the door, and Bullhead, the patient, turned over his letter of resignation quick in the dark, felt for a match and relighted his lamp. Swearing again at Bullhead, the freight conductor swaggered over to his table, felt in all the operator's pockets for a cigar, tumbled all the papers around and once more, on general principles, swore.

Bullhead took things uncomplainingly, but he watched close and was determined to fight if the brute discovered his letter of resignation. When the trainman could think of no further indignities he took his orders, to meet No. 1 at Sackley, the second station east of Goose River. After he had signed Bullhead asked him about the depot fire at Bear Dance that had been going over the wires for two hours, reminded him of the slow order for the No. 9 culvert and as the rude visitor slammed the door behind him held his hand over the lamp. Then he sat down again and turned over his letter of resignation.

To make it binding it lacked only his signature—James Gillespie Blaine Lyons—now himself of the opinion of every one else on the West End that he was just a natural born blooming fool. He lifted his pen to sign off the aspirations of a young lifetime when the sounder began to snap and sputter his call. It was the dispatcher, and he asked hurriedly if No. 30 was there.

"No. 30 is on the Y," answered Bullhead.

Then came a train order. "Hold No. 30 till No. 1 arrives."

Bullhead repeated the order and got back the O. K. He grabbed his hat and hurried out of the door to deliver the new order to the local freight before it should pull out.

To reach the train Bullhead had to cross the short line tracks. The wind was scouring the flats, and as he tacked up the platform the dust swept dead into him. At the switch he sprang across the rails, thinking of nothing but reaching the engine cab of the local, forgetting about the track he was crossing. Before he could think or see or jump a through freight on the short line, wild, from the west, storming down the grade behind him, struck Bullhead as a grizzly would a gnat, hurled him, doubling, fifty feet out on the spur and stormed on into the east without a quiver out of the ordinary. One fatality followed another. The engineer of the short line train did not see the man he had hit, and with the nightman lying unconscious in the ditch the local freight pulled out for Sackley.

Bullhead never knew just how long he lay under the stars. When his head began to whirl the wind was blowing cool and strong on him and the alkali dust was eddying into his open mouth. It was only a matter of seconds, though it seemed hours, to pull himself together and to put up his hand unsteadily to feel what it was soaking warm and sticky into his hair; then to realize that he had been struck by a short line train, to think of what a failure he had lately acknowledged himself to be and of what it was he was clutching so tightly in his right hand—the holding order for No. 30. He raised his reeling head. There was a drift of starlight through the dust cloud, but no train in sight; No. 30 was gone. With that consciousness came a recollection—he had forgotten to put out his red light.

His red light wasn't out. He kept repeating that to himself to put the picture of what it meant before him. He had started to deliver an order without putting out his light, and No. 30 was gone—against No. 1, a head end collision staring the freight and the belated passenger in the face. No. 30, running hard on her order to make Sackley for the meeting, and No. 1 running furiously, as she always ran—tonight worse than ever.

He lifted his head, enraged with himself, enraged. He thought about the rules, and he grew enraged. Only himself he blamed, nobody else—studying the rules for a lifetime, and just when it would mean the death of a trainload of people forgetting his red signal. He lifted his head; it was sick, deadly sick, but up it must come, No. 30 gone, and it wabbled, swooning sick and groggy as he stared around and tried to locate himself. One thing he could see, the faint outline of the station and his lamp blazing smoky in the window. Bullhead figured a second; then he began to crawl. If he could reach the lamp before his head went off again, before he went completely silly, he might yet save himself and No. 1.

It wasn't in him to crawl till he thought of his own mistake, but there was a spur in the sweep of that through his head. His brain, he knew, was wabbling, but he could crawl, and he stuck, fainting, to that one idea and crawled for the light of his lamp.

It is a bare hundred feet across to the Y. Bullhead taped every foot of the hundred with blood. There was no one to call on for help; he just stuck to the crawl, grinding his teeth in bitter self reproach. They traced him, next morning when he was past the telling of it, and his struggle looked the track of a wounded bear. Dragging along one crushed leg and half crazed by the crack on his forehead, Bullhead climbed to the platform, across and dragged himself to the door. He can tell yet about rolling his broken leg under him and raising himself to grasp the thumb latch. Not until he tried to open it did he remember it was a spring lock and that he was outside. He felt in his pocket for his keys—but his keys were gone.

There were no rules to consult then. No way on earth of getting into the office in time to do anything; to drag himself to the lunch room, twice further than the station, was out of the question. But there was a way to reach the key in spite of all bad things, and Bullhead knew the way. He struggled fast around to the window. Raising himself with a frightful twinge on one knee, he beat at the glass with his fist. Clutching the sash, he drew himself up with a hand and with the other tore away the muntin, stuck his head and shoulders through the opening, got his hand on the key and called the first station east, Blaisdell, with the 19. Life and death that call meant; the 19, the dispatcher's call. Hanging over the key, stammering the 19 over the wire and baptizing the call in his own blood—that is the way Bullhead learned to be a railroad man.

For Blaisdell got him and his warning and had No. 1 on the siding just as the freight tore around the west curve, headed for Sackley. While it was all going on Bullhead lay on the wind swept platform at Goose River with a hole in his head that would have killed anybody on the West End or, for that matter, on earth except James Gillespie Blaine Lyons.

After No. 30 had passed so impudently No. 1 felt her way rather cautiously to Goose River, because the dispatchers couldn't get the blamed station. They decided, of course, that Bullhead was asleep and fixed everything at the Wickiup to send a new man up there on No. 3 in the morning and fire him for good.

But about 1 o'clock No. 1 rolled, bad tempered, into Goose River Junction, and Bat Mullen, stopping his train, strode angrily to the station. It was dark as a pocket inside. Bat smashed in a door with his heel, and the trainmen swarmed in and began looking with their lanterns for the nightman. The stove was red hot, but he was not asleep in the armchair nor napping under the counter on the supplies. They turned to his table and discovered the broken window and thought of a holdup. They saw where the nightman had spilled something that looked like ink over the table, over the order book, over the clip, and there was a hand print that looked inky on an open letter addressed to the superintendent and a little pool of something like ink under the key.

Somebody said suicide, but Bat Mullen suddenly stuck his lamp out of the broken window, put his head through after it and cried out. Setting his lantern down on the platform, he crawled through the broken sash and picked up Bullhead.

Next morning it was all over the West End.

"And Bullhead!" cried everybody. "That's what gets me. Who'd have thought it of Bullhead?"

When they all got up there and saw what Bullhead had done everybody agreed that nobody but Bullhead could have done it.

The pilot bar of the short line mogul in swiping Bullhead unmercifully had really made a railroad man of him. It had let a great light in on the situation. Whereas before every one else on the line had been to blame for his failures, Bullhead now saw that he himself had been to blame and was man enough to stand up and say so. When the big fellows, Callahan and Kenyon and Pat Francis, saw his trail next morning, saw the blood smeared over the table and saw Bullhead's letter of resignation signed in his own blood manual, and heard his straightout story days afterward, they said never a word.

But that morning, the morning after, Callahan picked up the letter and put it just as it was between the leaves of the order book and locked both in his grip. It was some weeks before he had a talk with Bullhead, and he spoke then only a few words, because the nightman fainted before he got through. Callahan made him understand, though, that as soon as he was able he could have any key on that division he wanted as long as he was running it, and Callahan is running that division yet.

It all came easy after he got well. Instead of getting the worst of it from everybody Bullhead began to get the best of it, even from pretty Nellie Cassidy. But Nellie had missed her opening. She tried tenderness while the boy was being nursed at the Junction. Bullhead looked grim and far off through his bulging bandages and asked his mother to put the sugar in his coffee for him; Bullhead was getting sense.

Besides, what need has a young man with a heavy crescent shaped scar on his forehead that people inquire about and who within a year after the Goose River affair was made a train dispatcher under Barnes Tracy at Medicine Bend—what need has he of a coquette's smiles? His mother, who has honorably retired from hard work, says half the girls at the Bend are after him, and his mother ought to know, for she keeps house for him.

Bullhead's letter of resignation with the print of his hand on it hangs framed over Callahan's desk and is shown to railroad big fellows who are accorded the courtesies of the Wickiup. But when they ask Bullhead about it he just laughs and says some railroad men have to have sense pounded into them.

Lapis Lazuli.

Lapis lazuli, a peculiar stone, varying in shades from sky blue to dark blue, comes from various parts of Asia and has usually specks of yellow or white iron pyrites, which some believe to be gold or silver. The fine blue color for painting called ultramarine is made from lapis lazuli by grinding it into powder and purifying it from pyrites and other substances which are mixed with it in its natural state. As painters know well, this color is now difficult to obtain genuine since a mode of making it artificially has been discovered by chemists. The difference in price is great. The artificial cannot be distinguished from the real by even the most careful chemical tests, the only means of detecting the former being by the microscope, which shows the absence of the sparkling particles of the broken stone from which the real ultramarine is never free.

Birds as Workers.

Birds can and do work far harder than human beings. A pair of house martins when nesting will feed their young on an average once in twenty seconds—that is, each bird, male and female, makes ninety journeys to and fro in a hour, or, perhaps, 1,000 a day. It must be remembered that on each journey the bird has the added work of catching an insect. Even so tiny a bird as the wren has been counted to make 110 trips to and from its nest within 430 minutes, and the prey it carried home consisted of insects much larger, heavier and harder to find than were caught by the swallows.—London Mail.

Officially Confirmed.

The Washington correspondent hastily called up the cabinet officer by telephone.

"Pardon me for disturbing you, Mr. Blank," he said, "but will you please tell me whether or not the rumor that is in circulation as to your retirement is true?"

"Yes, sir," answered the cabinet officer. "It is. I was just about to retire when you called me. Good night."—Chicago Tribune.

"Makes me Bilious"

Is said of "green beer"—not of Schlitz.

Schlitz beer is aged in glass enameled steel tanks for months before it is marketed. Fermentation is finished long before you get it.

That is an apparent virtue. But the chief distinction of Schlitz is its purity—a virtue that you can't see. Yet the cost of that purity exceeds all other costs of our brewing.

Ask for the Brewery Bottling.
Common beer is sometimes substituted for Schlitz.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

—Near Elm College on Friday, Joe Jordan, colored, was found dead beside the railroad track, evidently having been killed by a train.

—Senator Simmons was invited to be one of the speakers at Tammany's Fourth of July celebration in New York next Thursday but had to decline as he will have to attend the Democratic State convention at Greensboro, July 3rd.

—Chief of Police A. B. Freeman, of Goldsboro, has been notified that Paul Johnston, a negro murderer wanted at Goldsboro has been arrested at Bellfield, Va. Johnston murdered Henry Miller, colored, at Goldsboro, and has been eluding the officers for the past month.

—Through the efforts of George Greenlee, a colored detective at Salisbury, Ed. Miller, a negro burglar was arrested there on Friday. Miller confessed to entering the residence of C. T. C. Deake, May 28th, and robbing it of two gold watches, several valuable jewelry and $75 in money. Everything was recovered but the money. Miller will be tried for his life.

—Charles Small, a young white man, is in jail in Salisbury on a charge of having worried his former wife, who is divorced and married again. The officers have been after him for four years, during which time he has annoyed his former wife and her other husband. They became afraid of him.

—On Friday at 10 o'clock the Ida Cotton Mill, near Laurel Hill, caught fire. The lapper room machinery, with ten bales of cotton and one hundred and fifty cords of wood, burned. The main factory building was saved by a fire wall. The loss is $7,000, fully covered by insurance. Mr. Mark Morgan is president of this mill. About $25,000 worth of cotton was in imminent danger.

—Wadesboro correspondence, June 29: A young boy, giving his name as Will Oliver, son of Rev. W. B. Oliver, of Florence, S. C., got off the excursion train, from Charlotte yesterday morning, here, and after coming up town found that he had either lost or some one had taken his pocket book containing four $1 bills and some small change, and this being all he had, he wired his father, who soon supplied him with money and he left on the 4:10 Atlantic Coast Line train, yesterday afternoon.

—Charlotte Observer: Those Charlotte people who are interested in the Lowry cotton chopper will have the opportunity this afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock, in a field on the Matthews road, beyond Piedmont. Mr. W. H. Roberts, a representative of the Lowry Company, will have charge of the machine. He will be assisted by Mr. M. P. Lipe of the county. The chopper attachments are added to the four picker arms of the Lowry cotton picker. Two rows will be chopped at a time, four men sitting at the chopper arms. One man will operate the engine. It is estimated that the machine will chop 25 acres per day.

—Rutherfordton Special, June 29: The Appalachian Inter-Urban Electric Railway survey from Hendersonville via Chimney Rock to Rutherfordton was completed yesterday and the engineering corps, in charge of Maj. W. M. Strong, of Tyron, returned to Hendersonville to-day. The preliminary survey just made is said to be a fine route, and in all probability will be decided on and located at once. The survey is made to connect with the Seaboard Air Line at this place. It is now said that a branch line will be built from Chimney Rock by way of Columbus, Polk county, to Gaffney.

—Washington correspondence Charlotte Observer, June 29: President Roosevelt to-day, through the North Carolina Senators, offered Col. W. S. Pearson, of Morganton, the position of consul to Hobart, in Tasmania. Pretty much everybody has endorsed Col. Pearson, and one day, when the Senators were at the White House, they put in a good word for him. That accounts for the fact that the President communicated with them concerning the matter. The position pays $2,000 a year with some perquisites and travelling expenses, but Col. Pearson will not accept. Tasmania is about ten thousand miles away, and the Morganton man, who is now in Washington, says it's back to Burke for him.

—Washington correspondence Charlotte Observer, June 29: To-day Senator Simmons, speaking as a minority conferee for the Senate in charge of the meat inspection bill, declared the Republican Congress had also surrendered to the next biggest and greediest trust, the beef trust, when the decision was reached to saddle the cost of inspection on the government. Senator Simmons evidently shared the opinion of Mr. Tillman that the President had scuttled to cover and left his friends on the firing line again. He said that inasmuch as the hour for adjournment was very near, leaving no time for further fight, he would sign the conference report, but he wanted it understood that he did this under protest, and that he felt humiliated in so doing. His first act of the short session, he declared, would be to introduce a bill taxing the packers with a view to raising funds with which to recoup the government for all the expense that may be incurred in employing men in this work of inspection. He would do this, he said, if he had to stand alone in the advocacy of the measure.

—Reidsville special, June 29: Local capitalists have been considering the advisability for some time of starting a big tobacco manufacturing enterprise. It is their intention, if they decide to take hold of the matter, to manufacture tobacco without so much improved machinery—just as it was made years ago. Of course the cost would be considerably more, but they aver that goods made in the old way are in much greater demand and will sell for a much better price. It is a well-known fact that the machinery leaves the product in its finished state in a deal worse conditon than were it made by hand. Where one factory now employs 500 hands and uses the improved machinery, 1,000 laborers would be needed provided it did not use the machinery. A well known tobacconist, after it had been suggested to him that the scarcity of labor would be a great problem in a venture of this kind, declared that he would have no trouble about securing all the help needed. He said that the only reason the negroes had left this section was because there was no immediate need for them. Very few factories have dispensed with the machinery, but it is a fact that those which have have very little difficulty in selling their products.

—The supplementary proceedings against B. F. King, the barber, and wife, was begun yesterday before Col. Jno. D. Taylor, Clerk of the Superior Court, but owing to the length of the hearing the case had to be postponed until Tuesday.

—The Star prints to-day the first of a series of seven "Railroad Stories" by Frank H. Spearman. One complete story will appear in each Sunday issue and the reputation of the author is a guarantee that they will prove a popular feature.

—Through Mr. W. J. Meredith, The Star has with the compliments of Jim Dunn, colored, of Kelley's Cove, Bladen county, a well developed cotton boll taken from a field last Wednesday. Dunn is a splendid colored man, a good citizen and an excellent farmer.

—Justice Bornemann yesterday issued a warrant for Charley Goss, colored, charged with kidnapping a 7-year-old adopted son of Sylvia Washington, proprietor of a cook shop on the wharf. Goss is a Fayetteville negro and the warrant has been sent there for service.

—Through his attorneys, Stevens, Beasley & Weeks, of this city, M. T. Murray, general merchant of Warsaw, has filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy in the United States Court here. The assets are scheduled at about $1,250; liabilities $2,500. Mr. Murray was burned out some time ago and the bankruptcy is to close up his business in view of the losses at that time.

The County Pension Board.

The County Pension Board, composed of Col. Jno. D. Taylor, clerk of the Superior Court, Col. W. L. DeRosset, Capt. George W. Huggins and Capt. R. M. McIntyre, will meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the purpose of passing upon applications for pensions from New Hanover. Only the most worthy of the applications can be recommended to the State authorities as unfortunately the pension fund provided by the Legislature is not sufficient to meet the demands upon the State Treasury from all the counties.

Carolina Beach To-day.

With the mercury in city thermometers simmering up around the century mark to-day, there will be no more delightful way to spend a season of delight than boarding the steamer Wilmington for Carolina Beach. There will be the usual number of boats and lots of attraction by the ocean to interest everyone.

Attractive sales every day at Polvogt's during their present inventory sale. Three trading stamps for one will be given away during the entire week. -*

Don't forget that delightful ride down the river to-day on the Steamer Wilmington. Boat leaves 9:30 A. M. and 2:30 P. M.

The Southern Barber Shop will be open until 10 o'clock Tuesday night and closed from that hour until 6 o'clock Thursday morning. **

Lumina and the MoonLight.

BRIGADE ENCAMPED

Members of the Brigade who have been in camp before are surprised at the capacity which some of the new members have for holding rations. George Keen leads in this respect.

Charlie Davis, who has been down for some days helping get camp ready returned home this morning to play ball with the S. S. R. team. He will come back to-morrow.

Religious exercises were held this morning, led by Mr. Chas. Dushan. These services are of great help to the boys.

Jocky and Haywood, the camp cooks, are feeding the hungry fellows from Wilmington in great style.

Capt. Burruss has an apparatus which he calls an instantaneous awakener, consisting of the battery of a telephone, and two wires which he wil' attach to the feet of some of the novices to-night.

Everybody 'round camp took a dip in the river this afternoon, except "Bill" Hodges, and he was the only man that needed one.

MR. REINBURG PROMOTED.

Recently Made Chief of Department at Jamestown Exposition.

Friends of Lieut. J. E. Reinburg, in this city, will read with interest and pleasure the following from a recent issue of the Washington Post:

"Lieut. J. E. Reinburg, of the United States Revenue Cutter Service, on duty as aid to Capt. Worth Ross, Chief of the Revenue Cutter Service, has been ordered to duty with the Jamestown Exposition as chief of the department of ordnance and machinery. He will report to the president of the exposition at Norfolk July 1.

"On account of the military and naval demonstration it is proposed to make a special feature of the exhibition of ordnance and machinery. Present plans contemplate a building 280 by 550 feet, with a floor space of 130,000 square feet.

"Among the departments will be steam engines, motors, machinery and tools used in the manufacture of government weapons, transportation exhibits, including material and equipment used in the mercantile marine and material and equipments of naval service and naval warfare.

"Lieutenant Reinburg was born in Chicago thirty-nine years ago. He came to Washington in 1878, and is a graduate of the local high schools. He graduated from the training school of the Revenue Cutter Service in 1887. Upon his promotion to the rank of captain next September, he will be the youngest man who has ever held that title in the Revenue Cutter Service."

REPUBLICANS OF ROBESON.

B. F. McLean for Judge and Adams Endorsed for State Chairman.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Lumberton, N. C., June 30.—The Republican county convention met here this afternoon and named delegates to the State, Congressional and Judicial Conventions. Nine of the nineteen townships were represented. The National administration and the State organization were endorsed. So was "Mary Ann" Butler. Delegates were instructed to vote for B. F. McLean, Esq., of Maxton, for judge of the Seventh Judicial District and Judge Adams, for State Chairman.

Will Dicksey Shot Last Night.

Last night between 10 and 11 o'clock Will Dicksey, white, aged about 35 years was shot by an unknown negro at Twelfth and Market streets. Mr. Dicksey says that he was standing on the corner when a negro appeared and opened fire on him, evidently mistaking him for some other person. The hospital ambulance was summoned and his wounds were dressed at that institution by Drs. Slocum and Gray. One bullet passed over his shoulder blade, and another entered over his right hip. The wounds are not serious. The police were investigating the shooting last night.

Railroad Torch Exploded.

Mr. L. A. Justice, a car inspector of the Atlantic Coast Line, was severely but not seriously injured as the result of the explosion of an oil torch, on the yards in this city, early yesterday morning. Mr. Justice was attempting to regulate the wick in the torch in one of the small offices on the yards when the oil in the vessel became ignited and shot a rod of flame upward burning the inspector badly about the face. A colored porter in a car under the shed rescued Mr. Justice and Dr. Bulluck dressed his injuries after which he was sent to his home on Sixth, between Castle and Queen streets.

Boards Meet Monday.

The usual first Monday meetings will be held to-morrow—the County Commissioners in the afternoon and the Aldermen at night. At the meeting of the Aldermen ordinances will be presented regulating the sale and storage of gasolene and providing for a more rigid meat inspection. Then there will be other matters of the usual nature that will probably have the reporters sit up and take notice.

PLUNGED TO DEATH

would be sent to Michigan for interment but it was finally decided to have the burial here and the funeral will be conducted from the grave in Oakdale at 9 o'clock this morning by Dr. McClure.

Upon learning of the circumstances of the death of Mr. Clark, an investigation of the affair was ordered by Capt. Walter G. MacRae, president of the Board of Managers. The committee assigned to the duty after very thorough inquiry found that blame attached to no one of the hospital for the lamentable affair.

sion of the child but that the husband secured possession of the boy through questionable methods, employing others to carry out his plans for obtaining possession of the little fellow. After hearing all the evidence yesterday Judge Peebles awarded the child to th mother, who now lives at Southport with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Downing. A rather pathetic scene occurred when the court ordered that the child be given to Mrs. Stanley. She went over to receive it from Mr. Stanley's lap and the little fellow cried piteously. The incident moved Judge Peebles to remark that it was singular that the child did not recognize its own mother, but Mr. Peschau promptly explained that the mother had probably grown out of the recollection of the little fellow during the three months that he had been kept from her by the husband and that a similar scene was witnessed when the husband took it from the wife in another proceeding at Southport some time ago.

A judgment was entered in the case taxing the husband with the cost of the action and remanding possession of the child to the mother as long as she demonstrated her fitness to rear the child in the way that it should be brought up.

Lumina Bowling Contest.

Mr. L. W. Austin was the winner of the $5 prize in the Lumina bowling contest on the play-off last night. Mr. Austin's score was 422. The others were Albert Aamold, 387; J. McRee Hatch, 370, and R. C. Orr, 368. The fifth bowler entitled to enter the finals did not show up.

IN BEHALF OF RUSSIAN JEWS.

Resolutions of Congress Concerning Recent Horror in Bialystok.

By Cable to The Morning Star.

St. Petersburg, June 30.—The resolution of the United States Congress with regard to the anti-Jewish excesses at Bialystok were presented to Foreign Minister Iswolsky to-day by Ambassador Meyer and subsequently were referred to M. Stolypin, Minister of te Interior, in whose department the matter properly belongs. Assurances were given Mr. Meyer that all necessary steps should be taken to prevent repetition of excesses at Bialystok and elsewhere. Sir Arthur Nicholson, the British ambassador, who also made inquiries on the subject, was given similar assurances. The vigorous methods of the police at Kertch, Vilna and other places apparently are guarantees tha. outrages will not be repeated in he Jewish districts in Russia.

Mrs. Thos. J. Davis, of Charlotte, nee Miss Ella Webb, of this city, is at Atlantic View and has ben cordially met by former friends and acquaintances. Mrs. Davis is accompanied by her four children and will be at Wrightsville Sound for several weeks.

Miss Alice Boatwright and Miss Ethel Gray are at Yellow Stone Park and are enjoying their visit to the fullest extent. The beauties of the park can hardly be overestimated and have surpassed the most sanguine expectations of Miss Boatwright and Miss Gray.

Miss Annie Laurie Thomson and Miss Gussie Thomson, two very attractive young ladies of Faison, who were accompanied by their guest, Miss Dixie Moore, of Raleigh, and chaperoned by Mrs. Frye, of Faison, were welcomed visitors to the city and beaches during the past week.

The Methodist church, of New bern, has been fortunate enough to secure for its choir, for the Summer months, Mrs. Annie DeRosset Harris. Mrs. Harris goes to New Berne every Saturday to fill her engagement, returning to this city on Monday.

* * * * *

The friends of Mr. Arthur L. Mills regret very much that he has removed from this city, going to Greenville, S. C., where he will be cashier of a new savings bank just opened there. Mr. Mills has made many warm friend in this city who will always have for him a very warm welcome.

Miss Eliza W. Meares will leave this week via. the Clyde Line, for New York, en route for Brookline, Mass., one of the beautiful residential suburbs of Boston, where she will spend a few weeks, going thence to popular resorts on the coast of Maine for the remainder of the season.

Mr. Adam Empie, of New York, is on a visit to his mother in this city and is being pleasantly welcomed by friends. Mr. Empie is one of Wilmington's former citizens who has achieved something of distinction as an interior decorator, and one who has a bright future in the home of his adoption.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace C. Prince, Miss Sue Prince, and Mr. Ed. L. Prince, Jr., who have been guests at the Virginia cotage, on Wrightsville beach for some weeks, will leave this week for Blue Ridge Summit, near the historic battlefields of Gettysburg, where they will spend the remainder of the Summer.

Miss Nellie Austin Durham, accompanied by her friend and guest, Miss Marion Lee Montague, of Richmond, Va., have received hearty greetings from friends. Dr. and Mrs. Durham are cottagers on the beach, occupying the Sprunt cottage, and the young ladies are receiving their friends on the seashore.

After a wek filled with all the pleasures which could be crowded into a few short days, Miss Linda Hendrix, Miss Sadie Dick and Miss Laurin Richardson, three charming young ladies of Greensboro, N. C., who have been the guests of Miss Atha Hicks, returned to their homes, much to the regret of a circle of acquaintances, made during their short stay.

* * * * *

Mrs. Robert Strange, Miss Helen Strange and Master Robert Strange are at the old home of Mrs. Strange's girlhood days, in Virginia, where they will spend the Summer. They spent a few days in Richmond last week and were warmly welcomed. They will be very much missed in this city during their absence.

* * * * *

Mrs. Kate T. Cumming, Miss Elovine Burruss and Miss Elizabeth Burruss wil be guests at the Northrop cottage on the beach for the month of July. About the first of next month they will go to Edgewater, the country home, near Norfolk, Va., of Mr. and Mrs. Burruss Corprew.

* * * *

Miss Florence Kidder, Miss Jessie Crosswell, of Fayetteville, Mr. Emple Latimer, Mr. Haughton James, Mrs. Glen Kenly. Mr. Emmett Crow, Mr. Spiers Hicks and Mr. Walter Kenly were the personnel of a delightful house party at Waccamaw lake last week, of which Miss Marguerite Short was the agreeable hostess.

* * * * *

Mr. Henry B. Short, who has ben on a visit to his parents at Lake Waccamaw, returned to New York yesterday. Mr. Short has made a very flattering business connection with one of the largest and leading law firms in the metropolis, and has the best wishes of his friends for his success in the practice of his chosen profession.

Miss Louise Hill, of Goldsboro, gave her friends in the city the pleasure of a little glimpse last Sunday—Miss Hill has been on a visit to her sister Mrs. Robert D. Cronly, in Baltimore, and passed through this city en route for Saluda, where she will be joined by Mrs. Cronly and the boys, and where they will spend the remainder of the Summer.

* * * * *

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Coin left yesterday on the Clyde Line Steamer for New York, where they will spend several days. From there they will go to Stamford, Connecticut on a visit to friends, proceeding from there to the Catskills. They will be absent from the city for several weeks and on their return will spend the remainder of the season on Wrightsville Beach.

* * * *

Miss Sue McQueen and Miss Lilly Gilchrist are of a party who will make an extensive trip, conducted by one of the faculty of Harvard College. They left Tuesday evening and sailed from Boston, Mass., yesterday, on one of the elegant ocean liners. The tour mapped out is known as the Mediteraneran trip, which takes in an unusual number of most interesting places and countries which have been made famous by history, and writers of fiction.

* * * *

Miss Ella Jacobs will be one of a housep arty of elven in Laurinburg this month, of which the Misses Grace and Emma Gill will be the charming hostesses. The personnel of the party will be a very attractive one and the hostesses, of whom there are none more popular, will gather together a bevy of very atractive girl friends. If the magnet attracts the needle, the Richmond county boys cannot be kept away and there will be no scarcity of beaux.

* * * * *

Mrs. Jno. D. Bellamy, Jr., and children, and Mrs. Frank D. Young will leave this week for one of the prettiest resorts in the far famed Reedy Patch gap, and will be guests at the Edney Inn, Bat-Cave postoffice. Near the inn "the creek" rushes incessantly down the gorge with its picturesque old mill, and "Fanalma Falls," one of the prettiest in the mountains, is but a very short distance from it. "Fanalma Falls" was named, a number of years ago, in honor of three attractive young women of this city.

* * * * *

Tomorrow and Tuesday the guests for the house party at Halycon Hall, Masonboro Sound, will be arriving. It will be one of the most attractive of the heated term and will consist of the hostesses, the Misses Nannie and Marguerite Holladay, and their guests, Miss May Mazyk, Charleston, Miss Maxie Smith, Mount Airy, N. C.; Miss Sophie Aldrich, Barnwell, S. C., Miss Selena Ravenel, Spartanburg, S. C., Miss Minnie Gwyn, Springdale, N. C.; Miss Lilian Fletcher, Asheville, N. C.; Miss Sara Gossett Williamston, S. C., and Miss Love McDuffie, Columbus, Ga.

* * * * *

Miss Mary Borden and Miss Alice Borden left last week for a delightful visit, on the ranch of their cousin, Mr. Frank Miller, near Silver City, New Mexico, and will be absent from this city for two or three months. It is hoped they will enjoy their visit to the fullest extent, extracting all the pleasures which can be gotten out of the fascinations of an ideal ranch life, but there are many here who devoutly wish they may not be captured by any of those rollicksome cowboys or other dangers of the wooly southwest.

The Bridgers cottage on the ocean, which has been the seat of many pleasant memories, is to add to its house party, which will consist of the hostesses, the Misses Margaret, Lucy and Bessie Bridgers, Miss Mary Norcot Broadfoot, of Fayetteville; Miss Heloise Bebee, Miss Janet Hawkins, Ridgeway, N. C., and Miss Marie Phinizey, of Augusta, Ga. The guests are expected in the next few days. About the middle of the month Miss Margaret Bridgers will be one of a riding party through the mountains of Western Carolina.

* * * *

Mrs. Nettie Slade Leitner, of Columbus, Ga., a sister of Mrs. Raymond H. Screven, is a welcome guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Screven, on North Fourth street. Mrs. Leitner has been North for some time, and, on returning to her home, is stopping en route with relatives for a few days. She came to Wilmington from Washington, D. C., where she was the guest of Col. and Mrs. Henry F. Blount. Col. Blount is having prepared a genealogy of the Blount family by a competent authority on heraldy, and Mrs. Leitner's visit in Washington at this time was opportune, she being a rather near relative of the Blount and DeRoulhac families of Eastern Carolina.

Friends have received very prettily engraved invitations from former residents of this city and State, which we.e as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Smith invite you to be present at the marriage of their daughter
Margaret McRee
to
Mr. Royal Pearson Jeter
Wednesday morning, June twenty-seventh nineteen hundred and six at ten o'clock
Trinity Episcopal Church
Bonham, Texas.

The bride elect is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, nee Miss Neppie McRee, of this city, and the groom is a young gentleman of fine qualities and excellent business qualifications.

* * * * *

Mrs. Z. W. Whitehead and daughter, Miss Anna Daws, will return today from a three weeks' visit to Washington City. On their return they stopped over in Norfolk, Va., for two days, where Mrs. Whitehead has an uncle, Col. Jas. D. Smith, for many years Naval Instructor at Annapolis, but more recently promoted to the position of Commandant of the cruiser Newport, aboard which Mrs. Whitehead and daughter were given a complimentary luncheon. During their stay in Washington they visited Mt. Vernon on the Potomac, Arlington, Cabin John's Bridge, Marshall Hall, River View, the National Library, besides many other points of interest. They will spend a short while at Wrightsville Beach and then go to Kenilworth Inn, near Asheville, for the balance of the season.

The society notes from the Auburn, N. Y., Advertiser gives the information that Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Latimer, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Latimer, Jr., and Mr. Hary D. Sleicher left Auburn last week, in the private tourist car "Biscay" for Pitsfield, Mass., in the Berkshire Hills, where Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Latimer will spend the Summer. Mrs. Sleicher and daughter, Muriel, joined the party in New York City and will spend some time in Pittsfield, with her parents. Mrs. Latimer, Jr., will spend a month in the Berkshires, returning to Auburn about the 22nd inst. The three gentlemen, Mr. Lattimer, Sr., Mr. Latimer, Jr., and Mr. Sleicher, returned to Auburn last week, by rail, for their motor cars, a white steamer, and two twenty-four horse power Franklins, and will drive them over the fine roads to Pittsfield.

Miss Besie Mills, the little actress, who was left by the company, of which she was a member, in a critical condition at the James Walker Memorial Hospital has so far recovered as to be able to go to her home in New York, where she has a brother who is a physician of one of the leading hospitals of that city. Dr. Mills will perform an operation on his sister for appendicitis shortly after her arrival, which is hoped will restore her to health. The company has kept in touch with Miss Mills and has expressed the deepest interest and concern in her welfare. There are tares among the wheat in her profession, as there are in all walks of life and because of this fact she might have lacked the little attentions shown her, had it not been for the kindly acts of the chaplain of the actors association in this city, and the order of Elks, which never turns its back on sickness or distress. The Elks, through one of its influential members, Mr. Henry J. Gerken, offered comfort by kindly acts, which were a source of great mental relief to Miss Mills, who in speaking of Mr. Gerken said, "his words of comfort and sunny nature, gave me hope and courage. His offers of asistance were so delicately made as to make me feel that it was a kindness to the Elks for me to accept the flowers and attentions shown."

INNOCENT FLORIDA LAD VICTIM OF SHANGHAIERS

Boy Lured on Ship at Pensacola Was Induced to Go on a Fishing Trip Winding Up in London—His Pay and How Small it Was

New York, June 23.—The Post prints an interesting story of the experiences of a young Florida farmer who was shanghaied nearly two years ago at Pensacola and who has seen all he wants of the sea.

Lewis Silcox, lived at Bluff Springs, forty-four miles north of Pensacola in Stanley county. A few days ago he was taken in at the American Seamen's Freind Society in Wall street, and expressed his thanks with fervor when he learned that he was to be sent back to the farm and mother.

"I expect," he said, "that I sure am about the gladdest man to set foot on American soil that you-all ever seen."

Then he took stock of his surroundings and was moved to point a moral.

"And to think this yere thing wouldn't never have happened if only I'd remembered that promise I sure made to my old mother. Yes'm, when my father up and died 'way back so long I done clear forget the year, I takes a look at ma, she sure was too derned pretty for any widder woman. So I reckoned to have some conversation with her, and I sure did.

"'Ma I says, "you're too dern good-lookin."

"'Why what does you all mean?' she says; but she don't show like she's mad to speak on.

"'I means,' I says, 'that I sees a stepfather in this yere house right smart, ef something ain't done. Now, see yere, ma, I ain't agoin' to have no over-ridin' young stepfather turning this yere house and this yere farm upside down, and treatin' me like I was no-count white trash. This yere thing's got to stop right sudden before it begins,' I says.

"'Now, ef you-all 'll promise me solemn not to set up with any other feller old or young in this yere township, I sure will promise never to leave you-all, but to stay right yere and work for you-all until one or the other on us catches up to dad,' I says.

"She promised and she sure has kept her promise, but you-all can jest reckon that I broke mine, and I expect I was punished right smart.

"It was this-a-way. In the middle of April, 1905, I went down to 'Cola to spend a few days with some friends and buy me a new pair of reins for the buggy. Soon's I steps off at the depot, a feller they calls a runner grabs my arm.

"'You-all would look healthier for a short trip on a fishin' boat,' he says.

"'Maybe,' I says, 'but I ain't troublin' none ef I don't get it,' I says.

"'Not a run 'long the coast, no further nor Mobile, with $25 a month and four suits of clothes he says?.

"That sure did sound good, and I done set right down there on the depot platform to think it over. But he says, 'Come up to the boardin' house and see the captain,' he says, and maybe he'll offer you more'n that,' he says.

"Reckoned 'tweren't going to do no great harm nohow, so I went right along. He was right agreeable feller, this yere runner man, for when we got to the boarding house and the captain wasn't there, he bought lots to drink. But I ain't sech a particular kind of a fool that Floridy 'd be likely to disown me, and I seen that he was a-trying to get me drunk, so I jest stayed plumb sober.

"Anyway, he sure bought a fine supper. But he done watch close on me and two young fellers he had at the boarding house. Never let his eyes off'n us all night. In the morning he says for us to come down to the wharf and see the captain. We gets in a rowboat and first thing I know I'm out in mid-stream on the four master Dhwar Jefley, Capt. Jefley. The mate he says ther's a paper for me to sign, and I sure signed it, but I told 'em I wanted to explain to the captain.

"Didn't see the captain none until the next day, when we had hoisted anchor and was on our way to Antwerp. Then the captain he sees me and he says. "Go aloft and hoist sail,' he says.

"'Excuse me captain,' I says, 'but I sure never did hoist a sail in my life.'

"'Damn it,' he says 'do they call you a first-class sailor?' he says.

"'Ef they do,' I says 'they call me a whole heap out of my name.'

"I never seen land after the next day for two months, when we entered the England Channel, and day after that we anchored at Antwerp and discharged our cargo of lumber. These yere deal planks was the only fish in our hold.

"Captain, he's right smart at figgers. He says ef he allows me half pay me not being a first-class sailor, and then takes out $16 for clothes, I'll have five francs for myself in foreign money.

"Wasn't quite five francs, he reckoned, but when he was settin' with me in the Swedish consul's office, the consul he up and says. 'Give him the five francs,' 'he needs it.'

"Five francs don't pay board very long in Antwerp; so I went to the Workman's Home, where I spent two or three months. Then I was turned over to the Police Church Home, where they kept me for eight days, and then got passage to London for me and shipped me over to there to try my luck with three francs that they gave me.

"Were you ar. ever in London. They sure do take less notice of you in that city than in any other town I know. I had got off at London Bridge, and pretty soon I met a policeman and told him my story.

"'Well,' he says 'you can't expect to draw many dividends on three francs,' he says. 'You had better eat he says, 'and then come back here and we'll talk things over. I went and had a meal, but I never got back. Lost my way and wandered all over London for three days with nothin' to eat, lookin' for that policeman. I sure was hungry those days.

"Then I got a few pennies and started to walk to Bristol, where someone had told me there were lots of sailing vessels on which I could get to America. I was three weeks on the road, and had another right hard time when I done went without food for three days.

Disappointed in this quest, Silox started on another long tramp. At Worcester, he obtained one or two odd jobs, and he remained for a month. At the end of that time, his case was called to the attention of Capt. Hurry of the Worcester police court Mission, who opened correspondence with the sheriff of Pensacola.

After several letters had been changed, money was sent, and a passage was secured for the man on the Westerland. Letters to the Seamen's Friend Society were given to him to show on his arrival. In one of these Capt. Hurry says, that there is no doubt that Silcox was greatly wronged by Captain Jefil, and when he was discharged at Antwerp.

And when I got home," says Lewis, fervently, "I'll sure stay there. And ef you -all should ever come to Bluff Springs, I'd be right glad to see you —ef you don't fishin.

KEEPS THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health is Worth Saving and Some Wilmington People Know How to Save it.

Many Wilmington people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but ther is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is the statement of a Wilmington citizen who has reclaimed good health by the use of this remedy:

J. E. Bloodworth, residing at 30 South Front Street, and employed at 123 Princess Street, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they have proven to be a very valuable remedy and I believe I am safe in recommending them. My back and kidneys have have given me great trouble. I thought I had rheumatism. I had shooting pains through my back and sides which often made me yell right out. If I stood, sat or lay down or kept in one position for any length of time it was almost impossible for me to move on account of the great pain. I heard some one speak of Doan's Kidney Pills and I sent down to Bellamy's drug store and got a box. They completely removed the pains. They are without doubt a valuable remedy for backache."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's— and take no other.

A Tragic Finish.

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great Northern Sea dyke, which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruinous break, devastating an entire province of Holland. In like manner Kenneth McIver, of Vanceboro, Me., permitted a little cold to go unnoticed until a tragic finish was only averted by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes: "Three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflamation caused by a neglected cold; but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life. Guaranteed best cough and cold cure, at all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

THE ACME OF GOOD TASTE IN NECK WEAR

The up-to-date woman and the woman who knows how to make the most of herself are easily recognized these days by the smartness and daintiness of their neck furnishings. Every woman, whatever her age or station, wears a stock collar of some sort, but in a good many instances it would serve as a splendid object lesson for "what not to wear and how not to wear it.

Soiled or badly adjusted neckwear is an abomination wherever one sees it. Yet often the very woman who would turn away in unconcealed disgust from the sight of a man wearing linen of dubious cleanliness will calmy put on a draggled looking collar of lace or embroidery dotted with ancient pin marks and fastened quite awry.

"Why in the name of decency can't a woman put on a clean collar every day as a man doe's" Inquired a fastidious masculine the other day. "And why can't she hitch it together at the back so that the two ends won't look as if they had just had a row and were about to sue for divorce?"

Why indeed? For there are stock collars and neck trimmings enough in the shops just now to fit all feminine creation. The prevalence of the lingerie waist has brought in a demand for neck accessories to match and of these there is an endless and alluring variety.

Some stock collars are of heavy Irish linen, richly embroidered. Others are composed of sheer lawn or nainsook, richly adorned with fine embroidery, or else simply hemstitched. And besides these there are many pretty novelties in the way of fancy lace collars which can be worn indiscriminately with waists of lace, silk or any summer fabric.

Nearly all the newest stocks are finished in some way with decorations of ribbon or silk. A favorite collar is the high linen collar with a turnover edge, either plain, hemstitched or embroidered and finished off in front with three tiny butterfly bows of silk ribbon, set one above another.

Plaid and Persian ribbons are much affected in these little triple ties, as also in the larger ties, worn in sailor knot, with the wide turnover "Peter Pan" collar, which is one of the season's most popular novelties. Sometimes, however, they are made in plain white lawn or in self-colored silk. In either case they are not much more than an inch wide, cut on the bias, and finished on each edge with the narrowest possible machine-stitched hem.

perhaps because most of the ready-to-wear stock collars that are really well made and of such good material are rather expensive for the ordinary purse, with so many other claims upon it, that the average woman tries to get along with a few when she actually needs a goodly number.

If she have the time and ingenuity however, it is possible to make at least three at home for the cost of one bought in the store. The dainty lace stocks, which cost so much in the stores, are even easier to make than the lingerie ones. A very Frenchy little stock among the latest importations consists simply of a strip of picotedged Valenciennes insertion fastened at two-inch intervals to vertical supports of featherstone. Sewn over each of these so as to conceal them are sprays of tiny roses made of pink baby ribbon with simulated leaves of pale green. The price of this collar is $4.50, yet it could be made by any clever needlewoman for fifty cents at the outside.

The question of neck trinkets is inseperable from that of collars. It is not in good taste to wear pins or necklaces with a mannish linen stock having bow ties, but jeweled neckets provide a pretty finish for lace stocks and stickpins or clasps are required for collars which fasten at the back. The most attractive of the latter are those of Etruscan gold set with amethyst, sapphires or tourmalines. For hot weather wear these transparent stones are preferred to the opaque ones, such as turquoises, malachites and agates.

Only 82 Years Old.

"I am only 82 years old and don't expect even when I get to be real old to feel that way as long as I can get Electric Bitters," says Mrs. E. H. Brunson, of Dublin, Ga. Surely there's nothing else keeps the old as young and makes the weak as strong as this grand tonic medicine. Dyspepsia, torpid liver, inflamed kidneys or chronic constipation are unknown after taking Electric Bitters a reasonable time. Guaranteed by all druggists. Price 50c.

Nebro's Herpicide

WHAT HERPICIDE DOES

Newbro's Herpicide destroys the tiny vegetable growth in the scalp that causes dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair and baldness. Once this micro-bic enemy of the hair is destroyed, and kept out of the scalp, the hair is bound to grow as nature intended, except in cases of chronic baldness.

WHAT SUNLIGHT DOES

Sunlight is nature's great germ destroyer and prophylactic. The effect of sunlight upon the scalp proves highly beneficial, if a complete plan of scalp cleanliness is carried out. This cannot be done without the use of Herpicide, which prevents reinfection and keeps the scalp pure and wholesome.

More men and women have gotten positive results from the use of Newbro's Herpicide than from all other hair remedies combined.

HOT WEATHER TROUBLES

The perspiration that exudes in increased quantities during the summer months carries out poisonous and refuse matter that woud otherwise clog up the pores of the scalp.

Incomplete elimination of this waste produces a hot and feverish condition of the sweat glands known as Prickly Heat for which Herpicide gives immediate relief. Herpicide stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

Col. Thomp Burton, Member of the Board of Managers of the Ohio Penitentiary, writes as follows of Newbro's Herpicide:

"As to Herpicide I find it an excelent hair dressing as well as being the first and only absolute dandruff cure I have found. Upon my advice a number of my friends are using Herpicide, and the unanimous verdict is, in all respects, everything that its manufacturers claim for it."

Free Trading Stamps.

On last Thursday the C. W. Polvogt Co. advertised that they would give three trading stamps for one during the remainder of their inventory sale. The public appreciated this liberal offer and the past three days they gave away nearly sixty thousand trading stamps. The Polvogt Co. is the only dry goods store in the city that gives trading stamps. Those who have not been saving the trading stamps will do well to begin to-morrow morning by making purchases at Polvogt's, who will continue to give three stamps for one during the entire week. The low prices made on their entire stock on account of taking inventory, together with the three stamps for one, will draw crowds the entire week, and "The Store That's Always Busy" will be busy.

YOUR HAT

May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of Dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

FAYETTEVILLE SURE OF PUBLIC BUILDING

Senate and House Conferees Finally Agree to Give Upper Cape Fear City $60,000—Fine Department Building Lost Out.

By Wire to The Morning Star.

Washington, June 30. — Senator Scott reported a complete agreement on the omnibus public building to-day soon after the Senate convened. He said the Senate conferees had been compelled to yield the Senate provision for a $3,000,000 building in Washington for the Departments of State, Justice and Commerce and Labor. Mr. Scott expressed his mortification over the fact. For himself he said he would have the national capital made the admiration and wonder of the world and he would have every available foot of ground secured with this end in view.

Both houses adopted the conference report. The disputed amendments settled by an all night conference make appropriations as follows:

For New York city, custom office, $450,000; assay office, $350,000; Detroit, Mich., $325,000; Columbus, Ohio, $400,000; Chattanooga, Tenn., $110,000; Cedar Rapids, Iowa, $200,000; Duluth, Minn., $125,000; Ocala, Fla., $85,000; Des Moines, Iowa, $500,000; Fernandina, Fla., $100,000; Moscow, Idaho, $100,000; Boston, Mass., $900,000; Fayetteville, N. C., $60,000; Carlisle, Pa., $75,000; Denver, Colo., 500,000; Minneapolis, $350,000; Richmond, Va., $200,000.

GOVERNMENT PRINT SHOP.

Its Lack of Competency Has Delayed Congress.

By Wire to The Morning Star.

Washington, June 30.—While the Senate was engaged today in waiting upon the House for engrossed bills, Senator Hale explained that the delay was due to the government printing office. He said that office had shown lack of competency to handle the business and that Congress should take steps at another session to remedy the defects.

Speaking of the printing office, Mr. Hale expressed the thought that possibly the new administration there is too much concerned with its own views and had not sufficiently taken into account the urgent demands of Congress. He had, he said, been informed that errors had been found in each new copy of the public buildings bill that had been received. Altogether, the situation had been most unsatisfactory and he hoped that Congress would never again have the same experience.

Senator Cullom mentioned the illness of the public printer as an explanation of the bad condftions in his office.

Senator Warren explained the course of the public printer in the Senate, and said that none of the fault could be traced to the Senate or to the Senate Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

ROOSEVELT'S SUMMER REST.

Left for Oyster Bay This Morning Accompanied by Detectives.

By Wire to The Morning Star.

Washington, June 30.—President Roosevelt and party left Washington for Oyster Bay at 12:35 to-night over the Pennsylvania Railroad. The Presidential train consisted of two Pullmans and a baggage car.

The President drove to the railway station in an open carriage, accompanied by Secretary Loeb. He was attired in Summer costume. Arriving at the station, the President alighted from his carriage and bade good-bye to his driver and some White House attaches. Entering the train shed where his train was in waiting, the President shook hands with United States District Marshal Palmer and a number of others who were there to see him depart. He chatted for a moment with Chief Usher Thomas E. Stone and then entered the special car Columbia.

A detail of detectives from headquarters and a squad of policemen from the Sixth precinct were detailed to guard the President at the station.

In addition to the President the party which left for Oyster Bay tonight, consisted of Secretary William Loeb, Assistant Secretary M. C. L. Latta, three White House clerks, secret service men and representatives of the press.

CONGRESS WHICH ADJOURNED SINE DIE LAST NIGHT MADE WAY WITH PEOPLE'S MONEY TO THE TUNE OF $880,183,301—CHAIRMAN TAWNEY OF THE APPROPRIATION COMMITTEE EXPLAINS ENORMOUS EXPE NDITURES — REPUBLICANS WARNED THAT DEFICIT IN TREASURY FACES THEM.

By Wire to The Morning Star.

Washington, June 30.—Chairman Tawney, of the House Appropriations Committee, made the following statement as to the appropriations for the fiscal year 1907:

"The total appropriations made at this session of Congress, including those carried in the regular annual appropriation acts, all deficiencies, miscellaneous matters, and permanent annual appropriations, aggregate $80,183,301.

"This is an apparent increase of $60,000,000 over the appropriations made at the last session of Congress. This apparent excess in appropriations is more than accounted for in the three following items:

"For the Isthmian Canal $42,447,000; under the statehood bill $10,250,000; toward the construction of new ouildings authorized at this session $10,321,000, making a total of $63,018,000, to which might properly be added $5,000,000 for San Francisco. Other notable increases are $3,000,000 on the agricultural bill for inspection of meat products and $10,000,000 account of the postal service.

"The total apparent appropriations made at this session, $880,183,301, do not constitute in their entirety a charge against the revenues of the government for the next fiscal year for the reason that there must be deducted from this sum deficiencies that are chargeable to the service of the current year and to meet expenditures already incurred on account thereof, approximating at least $35,000,000. This sum includes $23,000,000 for the Isthmian Canal.

"There should also be deducted $57,000,000 for the sinking fund, which may or may not be met in whole or in part, as it is purely a matter of discretion with the Secretary of the Treasury to utilize the surplus in the Treasury for that purpose.

"There should also be deducted the sum of $22,000,000, which is estimated and included in the whole sum of appropriations to be paid out of deposits of national banks in redemption of circulating notes of banks. The deposits are not credited as a part of the revenues of the government, and, therefore, redemptions made from the fund thus arising should not be charged to expenditures.

"The amount of $25,456,415 appropriated for work on the Isthmian Canal during the next fiscal year is payable from or reimbursible to the Treasury out of proceeds of bonds that are authorized to be sold for that purpose and should also be deducted from the sum of appropriations for 1907.

"The sums mentioned amount to more than $139,000,000 and when deducted leave appropriations of only $741,000,000 to be met out of the revenues of the next fiscal year.

"In my judgment the total apparent resources of the government next year are not less than $781,513,000 or at least $40,000,000 in excess of appropriations that may be charged against them."

Mr. Livingston, of Georgia, the ranking Democratic member on the Appropriations Committee of the House, made a brief reply to Mr. Tawney and warned the Republicans that unless they provided some means to increase the revenues that the next Congress would be called upon to explain for the deficit. He will submit a statement of appropriations later.

Roosevelt Comes High.

Washington, June 30.—Senator Culberson to-day found opportunity to make an address in the Senate on the finances of the country under President Roosevelt. The statement showed that exclusive of the Panama appropriation, the increase of expenditures in 1904 over 1903 was $35,496,995; in 1905 over 1904, $40,336,233; in 1906 over 1905, $17,903,836.

"This," Mr. Culberson said, 'shows an aggregate increase of expenditures, excluding all expenses in Panama, of $93,767,064 in three years. As usual with this administration, expenditures for the military and naval establishments increased for this period and of the preceding amount the increase for the naval establishment alone exceeded $34,000,000 for the three years.

The total expenditures for the years 1903, 1904, 1905 and 1906 was $2,933,004,409, and deducting Panama expenses it was $2,866,421,089. The total expenditures of the years 1898, 1899, 1900 and 1901, the four full years of McKinley, was $2,430,316,390. It thus appears that, exclusive of all expenses in Panama, the expenditures for the four years of Roosevelt exceeded these of the four years of McKinley, although he conducted the Spanish war, by the extraordinary sum of $434,104,699."

59TH CONGRESS HAS ADJOURNED

Sessions Ended Last Night at 10 O'clock—President Roosevelt Attended at Capital and Signed Bills —Uncle Joe Cannon Talks

By Wire to The Morning Star.

Washington, June 30.—Promptly at 10 o'clock to-night Vice President Fairbanks in the Senate, and Speaker Cannon, in the House, declared the final adjournment of the first session of the 59th congress.

For the first time in the history of the government Congress adjourned on the day which closed the fiscal year. Other sessions had adjourned before and some after June 30th but the 59th Congress ended its first session on the day when the government strikes its balance and closes its books.

There was some interesting features to mark the end which finally came when there was less than a quorum in either house, as many Senators and Representatives relying on the belief that the adjournment would come early in the day made their arrangements to leave in the afternoon and they did not remain for the closing scenes. An error in the enrollment of the sundry civil appropriation bill caused quite a flurry about the capital. It was found by Secretary Root in looking over the bill after it had been signed by the President that it contained an appropriation of $3,000,000, for a site for a public building in Washington, a provison which had been elminated from two different bills.

After some perplexity the error was corrected by a joint resolution.

President Roosevelt came to the capitol about 1 o'clock in anticipation of an early adjournment and when he found that there would be a delay in order to secure the enrollment of the bills which had to be passed he took lunch in the capitol and in the afternoon visited the Congressional Library.

Speaker Cannon rigidly carried out his intention of keeping back the adjournment resolution until the bills were all passed and signed, and the hour for the end was not known until a short time before the gavels fell with the announcement by Vice President Fairbanks in the Senate and the Speaker in the House that the first session of the 59th Congress stood adjourned without day.

Both Senate and House met early but a long recess was necessary in the afternoon to enable the enrolling clerks to catch up to the bills that had been passed.

The closing scenes in the Senate were formal and without interest. In the House there were the usual hilarious performances consisting of amusing speeches and songs which occupied the time during the long waits and members made the best of the hottest day of the season with merriment.

No business of important aside from completing the pending legislation was transacted in either House during the day.

The work accomplished by the Congress that terminated today is told by Speaker Cannon to the Associated Press. He said:

"In my judgment the work done and the legislation enacted in the session just closed, exceeds in importance, for the best interests of all the people of the republic, the work of any session during my thirty years of public life. I have not time to make a complete review of all the legislation. Suffice it to say, that the legislation covering appropriations and authorization of public expenditures has been most carefully considered and wisely enacted.

"The legislation commonly referred to as the rate legislation, the pure food bill, the inspection feature of the agricultural bill, are all measures that affect the interest of all the people, and while nothing perfect can be enacted, I am satisfied that the operation of these laws will demonstrate their wisdom.

"And I believe if nothing else had been accomplished than the enactment of these three measures, they alone would be sufficient to make the first session of the 59th Congress a memorable one in the history of the republic."

EXPLAINS TREASURY DEFICIT.

Secretary Shaw Trying to Offset Republican Extravagance.

By Wire to The Morning Star.

Washington, June 30.—Secretary Shaw to-night issued the following statement, making comparison between this and the previous fiscal year. "In making comparison between this and the previous fiscal year the following facts must be taken into account. The deficit last year was $24,000,000 in round numbers. This included $6,000,000 extraordinary expenses on the Panama canal. The actual deficit on ordinary expenses was therefore, in round numbers $18,000,000. This year the surplus is $25,000,000, and in addition there has been paid on the Panama canal $18,000,000. Te actual excess of revenues over ordinary expenses is, therefore, $43,500,000. The difference between $43,500,000 excess and $18,000,000 deficit on ordinary expenses is therefore $61,500,000. The Treasury, on ordinary expenses is $61,500,000 better off at the close of this fiscal year than at the close of the fiscal year 1905."

CHORUS GIRL WIFE TO BE MAIN WITNESS

Will Tell Thrilling and Tremendous Story That Will Startle New York—Harry Thaw Hired Detectives to Hound Stanford White.

By Wire to The Morning Star.

New York, June 30.—The declaration attributed to counsel for Harry K. Thaw that Mrs. Thaw will be the principal witness for the defense at her husband's trial for the murder of Stanford White, and that she will tell a "thrilling and tremendous story, opening the eyes of New Yorkers and people all over the world," attracted the greatest attention of any of the published developments in the case to-day.

Second in interest was the statement of a private detective that he and others had been hired some time ago by White to learn the identity of several men whom he believed to be shadowing him. The detective says he found the men were employed by Thaw to watch White. When he reported these facts to his principal, he says Mr. White exclaimed:

"I suspected it all along. This man Thaw is crazy. He imagines that I have done him some wrong." Mr. White talked along in this strain for some time, denying that he had wronged them in any way and declaring that his early friendship for the Nesbit girl, who became Mrs. Thaw, was purely a fatherly interest. The detective added that White had talked of appealing to the authorities to have Thaw's detectives taken off his trial.

Thaw spent a restless night in his cell last night owing to the intense heat in the city prison. He was visited early to-day by Mrs. Thaw, who remained with him for an hour and a half.

Before leaving the prison Mrs. Thaw asked Warden Flynn if he could not make an exception in her case to the rule which excludes visitors from the Tombs on Sunday. The warden informed her that the only person with authority to grant her wish is Corrections Commissioner Lantier. He advised Mrs. Thaw to see the Commissioner and she said she would do so.

A somewhat startling statement was made to-day to the effect that the July grand jury, which comes in Monday, will take up the Thaw case. It was the June grand jury that indicted Thaw.

No intimation has yet been given about what feature of the case will be the subject of examination before the secret inquisitorial body, but it is assumed the District Attorney seeks to implicate another person in the crime. There can be no reason for another indictment against Thaw, as the one actually in existence has not yet been attacked. As Thaw is known to have fired the three shots that killed Mr. White the announcement of further proceedings caused general surprise.

Acting District Attorney Nott is still unwilling to hazard a guess as to the probabilities of a speedy trial.

"If we hurry the case up," he said, "the office will be attacked for favoring a rich man. If we delay it we will be accused of postponing a murder case in the interest of a rich man, that he may be better enabled to thwart justice."

Delancey Nicoll, of the law firm of Nicoll, Anable & Lindsay, who was one of White's closest friends, and White was often consulted by him, said he knew nothing of the murdered man's personal affairs. He admitted conferences with White on other matters.

"White came to me several times," he said, "and complained that he was being pursued by Thaw."

"In what way?"

"He told me that Thaw caused him to be followed by detectives. He asked me if something could not be done to stop it."

HEARST REPLIES TO MR. BAILEY

NEWSPAPER OWNER VICIOUS

Declares Senator Bailey Began His Career By Refusing to Wear Dress Coat But Now Wears Livery of the Trust.

Washington, June 30.—William Randolph Hearst tonight telegraphed the following from San Francisco in answer to the speech made by Senator Bailey in the Senate, Thursday.

"Their excellence is due to Mr. Phillips and their value can be estimated by the aroused semi-sence of decency in some Senators and a shame in others.

"As for Senator Bailey, personally he began his career in Washington by expressing unwillingness to wear even the conventional dress suit. He ended by wearing tamely and humbly the while Senator Bailey is willing to scarlet livery of the corporations. But wear the trust livery and answer the Rockefeller bell as readily as any other Standard Oil backer, he does not like to have attention called to his badge of servitude and at present he is doing his best to hide it and shield himself behind the grave of the dead Senator Gorman.

"The whole matter has no interest for me, however, except in so far as it illustrates that growing evil in American public life—the control of the peoples' representatives by the corporations.

"WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST."

FATAL STORM IN PHILADELPHIA

Two Men Killed, Two Were Fatally Injured, and Property Demalished.

DISASTER CAME SUDDENLY

Day of Intollerable Heat—Building Blown Flat and Truck Crops Ruined.

Philadelphia, June 30.—Two deaths, two persons fatally injured and a dozen others severly hurt, is the partial result of a storm which came suddenly upon this city to-night following a day of almost intolerable heat.

James Jordan, a middle-aged man, was crushed to death beneath the falling walls of O'Neill Brothers' ware house where he had sought shelter from the storm.

George Johnson, a boy, was crushed to death beneath the roof of the Philadelphia Bedding Company's plant, which was torn off by the wind. J. C. Robertson, 50 years of age, was standing on his door step when the chimney of the house fell upon him fracturing his skull. He will die.

John McKenna, aged 12 years, was caught beneath the falling walls of the building where James Jordan lost his life and was fatally injured.

In the suburbs hundreds of trees were levelled and the crops of truck were ruined. In all sections of the city roofs were carried away, windows were shattered, telegraph and telephone wires were prostrated and some sections of the city were left almost in total darkness. In Camden, N. J., and other nearby towns the havoc was almost equal to that wrought in this city.

CONGRESS PRAISED BY MR. ROOSEVELT

Says Work of Session Was Greatest in Point of Statemanship Ever Accomplished in History of Republic—Measures Passed.

By Wire to the Morning Star.

Washington, June 30.—President Roosevelt to-night, on the adjournment of the Congress, dictated a statement concerning the work accomplished during the session just concluded. He says that the present Congress has done more subtsantive work along the lines of "real constructive statesmanship" than has been accomplished at any session of Congress with which the President is familiar. He says that men of genuine patriotism have a right to feel "a profound satisfaction in the entire course of this Congress."

The text of the President's statement follows:

"In the session that has just closed the Congress has done more substantive work for good than any Congress has done at any session since I became familiar with public affairs. The legislation has been along the lines of real constructive statesmanship of the most practical and efficient type, and bill after bill has been enacted into law which was of an importance so great that it is fair to say that the enactment of any one of them alone would have made the session memorable; such, for instance, as the railroad rate bill, the meat inspection measure, the pure food bill, the bill for free alcohol in the arts, the consular reform bill, Panama canal legislation, the joint statehood bill, and the naturalization bill. I certain have no disposition to blink at what there is of evil in our social, industrial or political life of to-day, but it seems to me that the men of genuine patriotism who genuinely wish well to their country have the right to feel a profound satisfaction in the entire course of this Congress. I would not be afraid to compare its record with that of any previous Congress in our history, not alone for the wisdom, but for the disinterested high-mindedness which has controlled its action. It is noteworthy that not a single measure which the closest scrutiny could warrant us in calling of doubtful propriety has been enacted; and on the other hand no influence of any kind has availed to prevent the enactment of the laws most vitally necessary to the nation at this time."

THE SUMTER TRAGEDY.

Remains of Mr. Norman A. Barnes Interred at Clarkton.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Clarkton, N. C., June 30.—The remains of Mr. Norman A. Barnes, who was killed by a train at Sumter, S. C., yesterday, reached here to-day and were interred in the Clarkton cemetery.

Mr. Barnes was married the 6th of last September to Miss Mary Clark, a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. L. Clark, of this place, who is left almost broken hearted. He also leaves a widowed mother, three brothers and three sisters, who live at Maxton.

He was engaged in the lumber business, and was an excellent business man, having made considerable money in the past few years. He was a pleasant, affable gentleman and was very popular with all of his acquaintances.

Dr. and Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Harrington, Messrs. N. A. Currie and K. B. Council met the remains at Bennettsville last night and came down this morning. Quite a number from Maxton also attended the burial.
